Legislative program for the new Congress

Nixon to concentrate on environment

By STAN BENJAMIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's legislative program for the new Congress may include proposals on land use, junk automobiles, mercury and other toxic matter, and trash dumping in oceans.

Preparation of proposals on these items and other environmental problems is now the top priority of the President's Council on Environmental Quality, says its chairman, Russell E. Train.

But it's a heavy burden on a small agency with relatively little money whose 15 professionals are supposed to ride herd on the entire environment.

Train's council is also responsible, for example, for reviewing hundreds of environmental impact studies, submitted by other federal agencies along with program proposals.

Train acknowledged in an interview the council could not give those studies "the kind of very careful, detailed review... that we would like."

To fulfill those responsibilities adequately, said Train, "we ought to be somewhere between two and three times as big."

At present, the council has, in addition to its three members, only a dozen professional staff assistants and about 30 other workers.

In addition, the council's $1.5 million budget request for the current fiscal year was slashed by one-third in Congress, and that reduced funding was blocked when President Nixon vetoed the multifaceted "independent agencies" appropriation.

Train hopes to get the full request when Congress reconsiders the bill.

Some conservation specialists who had high hopes for the council when it was created last January are seriously concerned about these handicaps.

Considering its money and manpower problems, the Council has turned in a great deal of work in its first 9 months.

Its first major task was the writing of a first-ever report on the state of the environment — a project, says Train, which "created a massive demand on our time."

By the time the report was published in August, the council had received more than 70 environmental impact studies, and by the end of October they were flowing in at the rate of four a day.

"Since the annual report," Train said, "the legislative program has been our major staff priority."

In between these tasks, the council has issued guidelines for preparation of the impact studies; aided in creating a new antipollution agency EPA and an ocean-atmosphere agency NOAA and contributed to proposals on a bewildering variety of pressing national problems.

If conservationists seem disappointed, it may be largely the disappointment of learning the council is not the public spokesman they thought it would be.

"Our role," Train emphasized, "is as advisers to the President."

"The development of strong legislative programs in the field of environment, I feel, is perhaps the most significant role that this council can have," said Train.

To fulfill it, he said, "you have to have a close working relationship. And if your primary role is one of public critic, it seems to me it's hard to maintain the other role."

Thousands of South Viets in Cambodia

SAIGON (AP) — Thousands of South Vietnamese troops pushed into northeast Cambodia today and uncovered one of the biggest North Vietnamese ammunition stockpiles of the war. In South Vietnam, enemy rockets and mortars hit two U.S. bases, killing three Americans and wounding 20. It was the heaviest American toll from rocket and mortar attacks in one day since July 22.

The new drive into Cambodia netted 254 tons of 85mm ammunition found in four holes six miles inside Cambodia's Ratanakiri Province, opposite South Vietnam's central highlands.

The South Vietnamese killed 11 North Vietnamese guarding the ammunition cache, the government said, and killed seven others in small clashes in the same general area.

The only South Vietnamese casualties reported were two soldiers wounded when their helicopter was hit by North Vietnamese fire.

U.S. B-52 bombers and fighter-bombers hammered North Vietnamese supply routes and depots north and south of the 4,500-man South Vietnamese task force. But the U.S. Command said no direct American support was being provided for the operation 185 miles north of Saigon.

It was the farthest north South Vietnamese troops have ventured into Cambodia since the first U.S. and South Vietnamese drives into the country last May and June. It was also the fourth major South Vietnamese drive into Cambodia in three weeks and raised to 16,000 the number of Saigon troops operating across the border.

One of the American bases hit by the enemy gunners in South Vietnam was the big Bien Hoa air base and Army camp 15 miles northeast of Saigon. It was the first time the sprawling base had been attacked since May 3.

House asks word when war powers being used

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has passed a resolution recognizing a president has emergency war powers but calling on him to report to Congress when he uses them.

The resolution was sent to the Senate by a 288 to 39 vote Monday.

The measure reaffirms that only Congress can declare war and says a president should, when feasible, consult with it before taking emergency actions.

It also says a president should promptly notify the president of the Senate and the House speaker when he commits or enlarges U.S. forces abroad without congressional authorization.

Rep. Roman C. Pucinski, D-Ill., said the resolution "doesn't do very much" because its interpretation is left to the president.

"If the president wants to send troops into the Middle East tomorrow," Pucinski said, "there is nothing in this resolution to prevent him from doing so."

Passage of the resolution, which has no binding authority, came after Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford said no president ever fooled Congress about the Vietnam war.

He said former President Lyndon B. Johnson deceived neither Congress nor the public on the 1964 Gulf of Tonkin resolution, although he added Johnson's "attitude may have changed later as events changed."

The Tonkin Gulf resolution, passed 88 to 2 in the Senate and 416 to 2 in the House, authorized the president to take any action necessary to repel enemy attacks and protect U.S. lives. It came after enemy gunboats allegedly attacked two U.S. destroyers off the Vietnamese coast, and later was cited as congressional authorization for the Vietnam war.

The Senate voted twice, last June and July, to repeal the resolution, although the White House said it no longer needed the authorization.

Ford defended the honor of the White House, from the administration of Harry S. Truman to President Nixon, during an exchange with Rep. Donald M. Fraser, D-Minn., who accused both the Johnson and Nixon administrations of making deceptive statements to Congress and the public.

When congressmen out of patience

Predict session will end shortly before Christmas

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has settled into a lame-duck session one of its leaders says will expire with a whimper "when we reach the end of our mutual patience," perhaps shortly before Christmas.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott supplied that assessment Monday, along with a lengthy list of left-over legislation he said should be handled.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the majority leader, who had asked for "a rock-bottom list," said Scott's—worked out in a conference with White House liaison officials—was a reasonable one.

It also was a long one. The Scott agenda included more than 30 measures he said should be handled before adjournment.

"I suspect there will be some casualties," Scott acknowledged. "I'm not able to publish a casualty list this early."

Scott and other Republican leaders were called to the White House today to discuss the reconvened election-year session with President Nixon.

Mansfield said the list Scott produced was one Congress could handle over the next four or five weeks.

"If they get together, they can do it," he said. "It doesn't seem unreasonable to me."

But Scott said, and Mansfield agreed, that the session might run on until Dec. 23.

Scott, who opposed the idea of a lame-duck session in the first place, said this one will be an "unmitigated disaster" marked by political disputes and attempts to load down legislation with the pet projects of people who will not be returning next year.

The Republican leader said enactment of all pending appropriations bills is absolutely essential. There are eight awaiting action, including the giant defense appropriation, and a transportation bill that would provide $290 million to continue the controversial supersonic transport aircraft program.

He also put on the must-pass list a new farm bill, which is likely to stir partisan debate,

Farmer to get less

Grocery cost rise expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's groceries may cost more by the middle of next year but the farmer will continue to get less and less for them, the government predicts.

"Retail costs of market basket foods may average slightly above current levels through the first half of next year," the Agriculture Department said in a report Monday, because of a continuing rise in wages for grocery store workers and climbing transportation charges.

Nevertheless, the farmer's share of the consumer's food dollar will average 38 cents in the first half of next year, down another cent from third-quarter 1970, the report estimated. The share has fallen two cents in the last year.

The rest of the food dollar goes to distributors and processors. But even here, the report said, middlemen's profits have not risen. Food manufacturers average a steady 2.4 percent ratio and profits for the 15 leading retail food chains declined from 1.1 percent in 1969 to 1.0 percent in the first half of this year.

The price increase, the report went on, is attributable to labor and transportation, which make up more than half the cost charged by middlemen.

The average hourly wage for all employees in the processing, wholesale and retail distribution of food during August this year was $3.01 per hour, 6.4 percent more than a year earlier.

Cholera spreads in East Pakistan

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN

DACCA, East Pakistan (AP) — Cholera spread today among hungry, homeless survivors of the cyclone and tidal waves that devastated heavily populated islands at the mouth of the Ganges River and stretches of the East Pakistani coast behind them.

Estimates of the total casualties were still only guesses, although relief officials said Monday night that the count of the dead had reached 55,000. Information Secretary Syed Ahmed spoke of possibly "300,000 or 500,000" dead, adding that such numbers were not confirmed.

Cholera, a disease endemic to the area, was reported spreading on Hatia, one of the stricken islands in the Ganges delta cyclone alley. Three ships sent there with medical supplies were waiting for swift currents to subside so they could land their cargo.

Officials feared a widespread epidemic due to polluted water and the destruction of sanitation facilities.

Relief Commissioner A. M. Anisuzzaman said the storm Friday hit an area of 2,388 square miles in five districts with 2.2 million people. Casualty reports still were unobtainable from many areas because of ruined communications facilities, he said.

President Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan and a group of newsmen flew over the area for more than two hours on Monday.

The rice crop, always insufficient for the area's dense population of 600 persons per square mile, was destroyed on Hatia, the neighboring island of Bhola and the mainland. The government estimated that 250,000 tons — 2 percent of East Pakistan's annual harvest — was destroyed.

Bodies were buried in mass graves. Survivors remained wandering about on high ground. Brackish water stood in the rice fields, stained red by the blood of cattle flung about by the 150-mile winds and 20-foot waves characteristic of Bay of Bengal cyclones. Such storms are called hurricanes in the Atlantic and Caribbean and typhoons in the Pacific.

Some survivors were dragging the bloated carcasses of cattle to burial pits. A few human corpses lay in the rice paddies, still unexplored by the survivors because of the standing water.

On southern Bhola, a few homemade boats could be seen, little bigger than canoes, carrying people to a beach that had no vegetation. Live cattle stood in little clusters, awaiting the death that would come because they had no food.

In northern Bhola, where the island's biggest towns are, flood waters were more widespread than in the south but more life was visible.

Amid the devastation, the peasants were picking up their lives again, beginning to put up new huts from whatever materials they could round up and spreading out the household possessions they had salvaged, placing them on lines and fodder mounds to dry.

Approve new courthouse; old structure will remain

By KATHY KNUDTSON
Daily News Staff Writer

2nd District County Commissioner, Leo Borkowski, in what he termed as the biggest action in his career in public office, today made a motion to approve the original plans made by the W-Smith Architectural and Engineering Service for a county office building, and to authorize the firm to advertise for bids for the construction, the bids to be opened at 4 p.m., Jan. 6.

The motion was seconded by James Papenfuss, and unanimously approved. Richard Schoonover, who is retiring as commissioner Jan. 1, abstained because he will not be living in the county.

The motion was made after a discussion on the plans and the presentation of five alternate sets of plans for placing the construction on the block directly across Washington St. from the present building.

JERRY Papenfuss, chairman of the city of Winona planning commission, attending the unofficial session previous to the voting, urged commissioners, as a private citizen, to make the decision today. The original plan, he said, has the greatest flexibility, is the most economical and has the best judgment. "You have given ample time to discussing and studying the situation," he told commissioners. "You have done much research and have had the competent advice of a reliable architect. You cannot gain confidence by waiting. I urge you to take action now."

Borkowski stated before the session was called that he felt that the commissioners have a duty to do. "We are looking in to the future," he said, "and doing what we feel is the best possible job in setting the locations and plans. I feel we are doing the right thing."

Jerry Papenfuss spoke of the tremendous responsibility of the commissioners in what will not only affect the situation now, but in the next 100 years. He said there was no question that, by that time, all of the governments might be changed, perhaps they would all be placed under one roof. The plans must be flexible so that the changes and expansion will be able to take place.

Wayne Smith had showed the commissioners five separate plans for placing the office building, as proposed, on the block across the street. He said that by doing this they would not affect the present courthouse building. It was his feeling that if the present building was to be saved, then it should be renovated as a functional building, without destroying and changing the present interior.

COMMISSIONER chairman Len Merchlewitz said the reason he had asked for the plans and the further study to be made was because of the way the new building would look placed next to the present building.

By placing the county office building to the south of the present building, Washington St. will remain open, and there will need to be no additional land purchase.

The building fits into the master plan made for the city of Winona about five years ago. The plan designates the site of the courthouse as the civic area of the community.

Commissioners will go over the plans with Wayne Smith at an unofficial meeting Thursday, to see if there are any changes needed before the ads are prepared for the publications.

Record albums valued at $200 taken from car

Winona police today are investigating five thefts reported in the city Monday, one of which was the theft of $200 worth of records, Chief of Police James W. McCabe said.

The record theft was reported by Paul Duffek, 220 1/2 Center St., at 4:20 p.m. He said the 50 record albums were removed from his car while it was parked on Latsch Island Sunday evening.

Robert Collins, 204 E. Wabasha St., called police at 6:38 p.m. Monday to report that his son, Pat, had just been robbed.

PAT WAS WALKING in the vicinity of East 5th and Kansas streets, Collins told police, when another youth ran up to him, grabbed his $12 paper route collection money and ran off.

Police received two reports Monday of homes being entered, Chief McCabe said. In both instances, a quantity of cash was taken.

Edward Boettcher, 1067 W. 5th St., reported at 7:09 p.m. that his unlocked home had been entered during the day and $49 cash removed.

ROBERT BEYERS, 1123 W. 5th St., called authorities at 8:50 p.m. to report that someone had entered his home and removed $35 cash and a quantity of clothing.

Employees at Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc., 1555 W. Howard St., called police Monday morning to report that one of their trucks was broken into Sunday night and $14 worth of dairy products removed.

Authorities are investigating, McCabe said.

Henry questions bond legality

Council files letter

Evans J. Henry, Winona Rt. 1, terming himself a "concerned taxpayer," asked the City Council by letter Monday evening to request an opinion from the state attorney general on the legality of the city's issuance of general obligation bonds to provide funds for urban renewal.

The council heard him out and, with one councilman dissenting, voted to file the letter.

HENRY TOLD the council that he had received an opinion from a firm of Minneapolis lawyers that it was illegal for the city to agree to issue general obligation bonds for a purpose of this type without a referendum. He said the attorney general would render an opinion if requested.

Mayor Norman Indall said that it was the opinion of a law firm employed by the Housing and Development Authority that there was no question of legality involved. "It's a moot point," said City Manager Carroll J. Fry.

Blair firm gets transport permit

MADISON, Wis. — The Public Service Commission of Wisconsin has granted, without public hearing, a license to operate as a contract motor carrier to James Seifert Sr., Blair, Trempealeau County.

Seifert was granted permission to transport milk in bulk tank trucks from the towns of Buffalo, Cross, Milton, Glencoe, Waumandee, Belvidere, Lincoln and Alma, Buffalo County, and Gale, Ettrick, Arcadia and Dodge, Trempealeau County, to Taylor Re-Load, Inc., Taylor, and to markets within a 50-mile radius of Sparta.

Winona is a growing commercial and industrial city, if such a judgement can be based on the number of water taps the city installs.

On Monday the city installed its 9,000th water tap, way above the normal average, said city manager Carroll J. Fry.

"Normally in a city of this size, you would have around 7,000-7,500 taps, because we have something like 7,000 living units in this community."

"THE 9,000 taps then indicate the high degree of industrialization and commercial development in the City of Winona as compared with other communities."

The 9,000th tap was installed north of the Hot Fish Shop presently engaged in an expansion program. A water tap must be installed every time new water service is installed to either households or commercial enterprise.

The rate of installation depends on the business and building activity within the community.

"we flee where no man pursueth."

Fry said that any question of the legality of such an action would have to come after the action.

COUNCILMAN Jerry Borzyskowski, who referred to the projected urban renewal program as the "city of Winona pork barrel," agreed with Henry that "we should get a ruling." Borzyskowski received no support from the rest of the council, however, and when Councilman Dan Trainor Jr. moved that the letter be filed, his was the only dissenting voice.

600 license plates sold first day

Over 600 1970 motor vehicle license plates were sold in Winona County Monday, according to County Auditor Alois Wiczek.

Monday was the first day the new plates went on sale. The first pair of license plates were sold to Donald Slow, 622 Sioux St., who said he arrived at the auditor's office at 7 a.m. to wait for the 8 a.m. opening. He said the second person in line didn't arrive until 7:40 p.m.

Stow's hobby is collecting license plates, he said. He received license number 1JA-100. No numbers are issued below 100.

The new green on silver plates have reflectorized numerals for the first time.

Another first this year is that they are being sold by the county auditor's office. The 50-cent fee on each set of plates now goes into county funds," Wiczek said.

The plates may be purchased from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily at the auditor's office until Jan. 10, when a $1 late fee goes into effect.

Ostrander to get direct long distance dialing

OSTRANDER, Minn. — Ace Telephone Association's 173 subscribers at Ostrander will get direct distance dialing (DDD) at 12:01 a.m. Dec. 1, General Manager Robert W. Bunke announced.

Ostrander will be the ninth Ace exchange in southeastern Minnesota to get DDD this year, completing the Houston-based Independent telephone company's 1970 DDD schedule.

In the near future Ace will announce the 1971 DDD schedule for other exchanges.

Public relations workshop for teachers slated

EDINA, Minn. — More than 150 teachers from throughout the state are expected to attend the day-long Public Relations Workshop of the Minnesota Education Association (MEA) Dec. 5 at the Radisson South here.

Workshop faculty will include Lieutenant Governor James Goetz; Robert Shaw, manager of the Minnesota Newspaper Association; Peter Popovich, St. Paul attorney; Robert Bork, managing editor of Post Publications, suburban Minneapolis; and Ahron Leichtman and Richard Nielsen, National Education Association.

Discussion topics will range from how to meet your local editor to prospects for teachers in the upcoming legislature.

Elite control everything, speaker says

Former Yale sociologist Robert Cook outlined the structure of the corporate elite in a lecture in the St. Mary's College Center Monday evening, charging that a very few of the richest men in America control most of the political, social and economic power.

The lecture by Cook, now a construction worker, was the last in a series of center board lectures.

HE CONTENDED that 1.6 percent of the adult population controls the nation's economy, and therein lies political and social control. "Without economic equality, political equality is a sham," Cook said, explaining that "only a man who is economically independent is politically free."

Through a "fantastic increase in consumer debt," he said, the American people are becoming "economically dependent" on the corporate elite.

"Rather than being the cause of inflation, the worker in America today is actually the victim of inflation; the paycheck looks fatter but it buys less."

Cook charged that "America is essentially a big plantation," pointing out we "are slaves, economically."

He called two-party democracy a "myth," explaining that "a small number of people own and run our country."

TAX REFORM aimed at the large corporations and corporations heads is unworkable, he said, because they will just pass the higher taxes on to the consumer in the form of higher prices.

He called activism by the young a "response, a symptom, not an alternative," but also attacked the political structure as unable to bring about change. "I don't think that the organized political system that we have today is organized in such a way that change can be brought about."

Cook was one of the organizers of the American Independent Movement (AIM), a political group opposed to the Viet Nam War and urban renewal. In 1966 and 1968 he was AIM's candidate for Congress from Connecticut's 3rd District.

Rock musician charged on 2 assault counts

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A young rock musician charged on two counts of assault and one of indecent conduct testified Monday he believes his actions were the result of LSD contained in cookies he was given.

Cortez Espinoza, 20, Minneapolis, testified he was offered cookies by a "hippie" at an all-day rock festival here July 19. Espinoza said he was hungry and ate four of the cookies.

Police said Espinoza broke a picture window while trying to enter the apartment of a girl he did not know, tried to kiss the girl's boyfriend and attempted to beat him with a belt, exposed himself and bit the wrist of an arresting officer.

Testifying at his trial in Hennepin County District Court, Espinoza said he and a companion, who took two cookies, started to feel dizzy 20 or 30 minutes after they ate the cookies.

"Things started getting blurry and I kept rubbing my eyes," he said. "We thought we were dead."

"It seemed like nothing was real, I wasn't part of the world anymore, you know?"

Espinoza testified he didn't remember anything from the time when he committed the alleged acts. "I heard sirens and glass breaking, and all the time I was walking," he said. "I thought I was dreaming."

Dr. Scott Davis, a psychopharmacologist, testified that Espinoza's behavior was typical of LSD cases.

In response to questions from attorneys, Espinoza said he had never before used drugs, and in fact is working on a film to warn black youths about the dangers of drugs.

Espinoza is a former director of a junior high anti-poverty recreational program called Black Pride. Mrs. Raymond Plank, Black Pride board chairman, praised his work with the organization.

A jury of seven women and five men will receive the case today following final arguments and instructions by Judge James Johnston.

OTHER FIRMS bidding on the bonds were: First National Bank of St. Paul, $314,055 net with a rate of 5.3961 percent; Dane, Ellman and Quail, Minneapolis, $317,425 net and 5.44 percent; John Nuveen and Co., Chicago, $312,235 net and 5.398 percent; E. J. Prescott and Co. Syndicate, Minneapolis, $327,562.50 net and 5.6282 percent, and LaSalle National Bank, Chicago, $325,716.56 net and 5.5965 percent.

Council approval was unanimous in awarding the bonds to Northern Trust. The sale was conducted by Osman Springsted of Springfield, Inc., St. Paul, bonding consultants.

The bonds were sold to provide funds for the city's share of the construction of the new sanitary sewage treatment facilities. Interest and payments on the principal are payable over a 20-year period each Nov. 1. Principal payments range in amounts from $25,000 to $60,000.

Total cost of the new plant will be $3,845,253.50. Original estimates on the plant were $718,115 below actual bids and the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development has given assurances that a supplemental federal grant will be extended to cover up to 33 percent of that amount. The federal government is paying one-third of the total cost of the facility.

Cathedral School request

Council allows street closing

With one dissenting vote, the City Council Monday evening authorized the closing of Center Street between Wabasha and Sanborn streets during school hours of Cathedral Elementary School. The action had been laid over from the Nov. 9 meeting of the council.

The school's request again was explained by Philip Feiten, president of the Cathedral school board.

He said the young children must cross Center Street from four to eight times a day in large numbers and asked that the city close the street to assure their safety.

COUNCILMAN Howard Howland said several area residents had spoken to him to oppose the closure, seeing a further curtailment of local access and a way to worsen an already congested parking situation.

Feiten had modified his request to ask that limited access to area residents be given to the middle of the block on the Sanborn Street end of the block and that the Wabasha Street end be completely barricaded to the center of the block.

Feiten said he had the signatures of 275 Cathedral school parents requesting the closure during school hours.

HOVELAND suggested that the closure would make a playground of the street but Sister Jerome, principal of the school, said the children would be supervised and would not be allowed to play in the street.

Hoveland then suggested that a partial barrier be placed at each end of the street to allow limited access. The rest of the councilmen, however, went along with Feiten's request with the amendment that there would be no parking within the boundaries during school hours.

Council delays action on city landfill plan

The City Council Monday night adjourned until 5 p.m. today when it will take under consideration the establishment of sanitary landfill facilities for the city.

Two of the three owners of potential landfill sites in the county had submitted quotations for landfill operations to the council Monday night. A committee consisting of Councilmen Dan Trainor Jr., chairman; Gaylord Fox and Earl Laufenberger were to meet this afternoon with James Murphy, Wilson Township, and the Zenke Bros., Homer Township, to inspect the potential sites and go over the quotations submitted.

Junior Markwardt, Minnesota City, the third potential landfill operator, did not submit a quotation.

A SET OF general specifications on which to estimate total city costs of operating a sanitary landfill was adopted at the council's Nov. 9 meeting. The potential operators wished to submit figures for 2 1/2 years but Murphy's figures were based on a year's operation as originally requested by the council.

Murphy quoted compacted refuse at 45 cents per cubic yard, loose refuse, 35 cents per cubic yard; vehicle rubber tires, 40 cents; electric appliances, 50 cents per unit; shives, $7 per load; liquid waste, $6 per thousand gallons; tree waste, $4 per load.

The total amount of Murphy's quotation for the one-year period was $43,765.

THE ZENKE BROS. quoted 50 cents per cubic yard for compacted refuse; loose refuse, 35 cents; vehicle rubber tires, 45 cents; electric appliances, 90 cents; shives, $7; liquid waste, $7.50, and tree waste, $7. The total quotation was $84,160.

The council had called for the quotations for estimates as the foundation for possible future negotiations.

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Benny celebrated his 20th anniversary in television Monday night with a nostalgic and funny special on NBC.

The program reunited Benny's old gang that goes back to the radio days—Rochester, Dennis Day, Don Wilson and even Mary Livingstone. In addition, Bob Hope, Lucille Ball, Red Skelton, Frank Sinatra, Dinah Shore, Dean Martin and more old friends and associates bobbed in and out. It could have been a jumble, but the hour was organized, and each visitor had something to do. The result was great.

The hour was constructed on the familiar Benny form: He was preparing for his 20th anniversary broadcast, and the guests were arriving in a series of well-planned interruptions.

Benny's own comedy is untouched by age and never seems to stale. At the end, in a series of clips from old shows, Jack was seen in the same gestures and same pained expression on his face that make today's audiences laugh.

The hour followed this month's Bob Hope special which by contrast seemed to have been tossed together. However, the two programs in tandem, with perennial favorites turning up in droves, had enormous audience appeal.

Hope's hour too was loaded with star power: Lucille Ball, Tom Jones, George Burns and Danny Thomas. However, the shabby quality of its sketch material wasted most of the talent.

Even Hope's opening monologue, usually the high spot of the show, was off form.

CBS's "Gunsmoke" emerged as the most popular program during the week ending Nov. 9, according to the Nielsen rating. NBC's "Flip Wilson Show" stayed in second place, followed by "The Wonderful World of Disney."

The ratings were pretty mixed up during the week by election program pre-emptions.

Major event on tonight's schedule is NBC's two-hour "Hall of Fame" adaptation of "Hamlet," 8-10 CST. Richard Chamberlain of "Dr. Kildare" now plays the melancholy Dane, with John Gielgud, Michael Redgrave and Margaret Leighton in other roles. The play was taped in England.

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special Senate subcommittee opened a new probe of GI drug abuse today that will include a hard look at one of the most abused intoxicants of all—alcohol.

Sen. Harold Hughes, D-Iowa, said in a hearing-opening statement the over all drug problem, including drinking, may be so serious as to threaten national security.

The same allegation has been raised by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., in GI drug abuse hearings before his juvenile delinquency subcommittee. Pentagon officials concede drugs are a problem but generally deny that the nation's defenses are impaired as a result.

The Hughes probe comes at a time when interest in the problem has been rekindled by a dramatic television newsfilm sequence last week depicting a squad of U.S. soldiers in Vietnam smoking marijuana.

Hughes, who licked a drinking problem of his own, heads the new inquiry as chairman of the special subcommittee on narcotics and alcoholism.

He made clear he considers the abuse of alcohol in the same league with the abuse of marijuana or hard drugs.

He said staff members have visited Vietnam, toured Army and Air Force bases in Thailand, talked to men along the demilitarized zone in Korea and checked on the situation with psychologists, psychiatrists and social workers.

The senator said the growing number of men in uniform using drugs represent a problem inseparably linked to drug use in civilian life.

"The unprecedented, epidemic growth of the problem everywhere in our society today poses a new and alarming threat to our public health and social stability and quite possibly to our national security," he said.

HEARING DAMAGE
MADISON, Wis. (AP) — High noise levels that are a regular part of the working environment are damaging to hearing but do not affect most work performance, an engineering institute sponsored by the University of Wisconsin Extension was told Monday.

The slight move toward easier money gained some impetus last week when the Fed lowered its discount rate, the amount its member banks charge for borrowing money, from 6 to 5 1/2 percent.

That decision led to a quick one-quarter of one per cent reduction in the prime interest rate, the amount that commercial banks charge their biggest customers for borrowing.

The committee said most members favored a yearly 5 per cent growth in the money supply—cash and checking accounts deposits.

If the committee's policies had remained the same, it said, the money supply would have grown at about a 4 per cent rate through the last half of the year.

The committee said it placed "considerable stress" on expanding credit to help the hard-pressed housing industry.

But three members, Fed board member Andrew F. Brimmer, Alfred Hayes, pres-

Muskie, McGovern seeking key assignment

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
WASHINGTON (AP) — In what could develop into the first round of a Senate-centered presidential contest, Democrats Edmund S. Muskie and George S. McGovern are seeking assignment to the prestigious Foreign Relations Committee.

Another possible contender in the musical-chairs game is Hubert H. Humphrey, the 1968 Democratic presidential nominee who is scheduled to return to the Senate in January after a six-year absence. He formerly served on the committee.

Muskie appears to have the inside track to a committee seat which could strengthen his credentials in the foreign policy area for his already-percolating presidential bid.

The Maine Democrat told reporters Monday he has written members of the steering committee that assigns Democratic senators seeking the spot. He added he is considering an overseas trip, possibly including the Middle East and Europe, for later this year.

Muskie has devoted most of his time in the Senate to domestic areas such as pollution and urban legislation. McGovern, while not a foreign relations member, has been a leader of efforts to restrict the Vietnam war.

The South Dakota Democrat conceded in an interview Monday his bid for foreign relations is an uphill fight for two reasons:

- Muskie has four years of seniority over him.
- South Dakota's other senator, ailing Republican Karl E. Mundt, is also a Foreign Relations member and generally only one senator from each state serves on the panel.

Another hopeful for the committee is Sen. William B. Spong Jr. of Virginia, who has less seniority than either Muskie or McGovern.

Two of the nine Democrats currently on the committee were defeated for re-election: Sens. Albert Gore of Tennessee and Thomas J. Dodd of Connecticut.

Of the six Republicans, Sen. John J. Williams of Delaware is retiring and Mundt, out of the Senate since a stroke nearly a year ago, is said to be under strong GOP pressure to resign so South Dakota's Republican governor can name a successor before he surrenders his office in January to a Democrat.

Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, expressing interest in going on the committee himself, indicated in a separate interview Republicans may seek to change the committee's ratio to 8-to-7 to reflect the two-seat GOP pickup in the Senate elections.

McGovern also agreed with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., that Muskie is "way out ahead" at this stage for the 1972 nomination.

"I think at this point that doesn't mean an awful lot," added McGovern, expected to be first out of the starting gate for 1972 sometime early next year.

Kennedy said again Monday he would not run for the nomination nor accept it. He said in seeking re-election to the Senate this fall he would serve the full six-year term.

After Marshall U. tragedy

New airport requirements seen

By JAMES R. POLK
HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP) — The Marshall University air tragedy that killed 75 persons may lead to new requirements for commercial airports lacking sophisticated electronic landing aids, the chief investigator into the crash said.

"There will be recommendations coming in this area, I'm pretty sure," said William L. Lamb of the National Transportation Safety Board. But he gave no details.

The small, one-runway airport where the chartered twin-engine DC9 jet crashed in rain and fog Saturday night has neither radar nor a system that warns pilots whose planes drop too low.

The investigation underscored a stark fact: Throughout the nation countless other airports serving jet airliners daily may lack the modern electronic aids taken for granted by many travelers.

In Washington, Rep. Fletcher Thompson, R-Ga., charged on the floor of Congress that the ill-starred Marshall football team and its fellow passengers would be alive today if the airport had the guidance devices.

Thompson called for installation of the warning light systems at all of the nearly 300 airports which he said handle propeller and jet airline landings without the electronic aids.

Charles F. Dorrill, president of the Tri-State Airport Board, blamed a lack of funds for the failure to have the modern equipment.

The warning light system, formally called a glide slope system, directs an electronic beam at an incoming jet that turns on a light in the cockpit if the plane gets too high or too low in its landing approach.

The fated plane had the receiving set but the Tri-State Airport at Huntington was equipped only with a localizer, a radio beam which warns a pilot if he strays to either side.

The charter jet from Southern Airways was lined up straight with the runway Saturday night when it clipped the top of trees on a high ridge and plunged into a nearby hillside where it exploded in flames.

John H. Reed, chairman of the NTSB, said the jet was obviously too low on its approach. The safety board has yet to find out why.

Two possibilities loomed—the altimeter gauge in the cockpit which shows a plane's height during a blind landing approach may have malfunctioned, or the pilot may have made a human error in using it.

But, Lamb said, "there are no assumptions made at this time as to the cause of the accident. It is too early to know."

Watered down plan vetoed

Nixon dealt defeat on job safety bill

By JOE HALL
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has dealt President Nixon on his first loss in the newly opened lame-duck session, a two-vote rejection of his effort to water down a job safety bill backed by organized labor.

In spite of Monday's 41-30 vote to table, and thus kill, a White House-backed substitute for the bill covering 80 million workers, Republicans indicated another effort would be made to bring the measure more in line with administration and business thinking.

Seven Republicans, including one defeated for re-election two weeks ago, joined 34 Democrats in voting against the administration's substitute. Opposing the tabling motion were 27 Republicans and 12 Democrats.

Among those voting to table the President's plan was Sen. Charles Goodell, R-N.Y., defeated Nov. 3 by conservative James L. Buckley, the White House favorite in the three-way race.

Other Republicans voting to kill the administration's proposal were Edward Brooke of Massachusetts, Clifford P. Case of New Jersey, Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, Jacob Javits of New York, Richard Schweiker of Pennsylvania and Ted Stevens of Alaska.

Two other Republicans, Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania and Charles Percy of Illinois did not vote but were paired—or announced—as in favor of tabling. The action leaves the bill approved by the Labor Committee before the Senate. That measure has the support of the AFL-CIO and liberal Democrats.

The Democrats' bill gives the secretary of labor authority to make and enforce mandatory health and safety standards for virtually all industries.

Under the defeated Nixon plan, one board would be created to draw up the standards and another to enforce them.

George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, asked Congress to reject the President's proposal, declaring that the boards would both be industry-dominated.

However, Sen. Peter H. Dinkins, R-Colo., who offered the administration substitute, said concentrating all authority in the secretary of labor put too much power in the hands of one man.

let's try anything

Adults are very excited about how their children abuse drugs. We torture ourselves over just the thought of it. The seminars, discussions, speeches, booklets, interviews are without end.

Yet as a social problem the youth drug culture pales into insignificance alongside the adult alcohol culture.

ABUSED, ALCOHOL can be a menace to the user and all whom the user encounters. Alcohol, when abused, can prevent a man from holding a job, from meeting family obligations, from maintaining social obligations, even from living.

Alcohol in the drinking driver is an exceptional menace to other people. Traffic fatality statistics indicate that more than half the time one of the drivers had been drinking — too much.

According to Minnesota law, 0.10 percent is the percentage-weight of alcohol in the bloodstream that renders a driver legally intoxicated.

The two charts below — reprinted from Heartbeat, publication of the Minnesota Blue Cross, Blue Shield of Minnesota, and MII — show the approximate amount of alcohol that can be consumed (based on body weight) before the 0.10 percent level is reached.

"EMPTY STOMACH"

DURING A ONE-HOUR PERIOD WITH LITTLE OR NO FOOD INTAKE PRIOR TO DRINKING

Adapted from a chart by U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare

"FULL STOMACH"

DURING A ONE-HOUR PERIOD OCCURRING BETWEEN ONE AND TWO HOURS AFTER AN AVERAGE MEAL

Adapted from a chart by Royal Canadian Mounted Police

To determine the approximate average number of ounces of 80 proof liquor needed in a one-hour period to reach 0.10 percent, draw a line from your body weight to 0.10 on the chart. The point where that line crosses the center line on the chart will roughly show how many ounces you can consume before becoming legally intoxicated. (Lines to other points show other blood-alcohol levels.)

This chart shows rough averages only. Many factors, including capacity of stomach, percentage of fatty tissue in the body, etc., must be taken into consideration to get a truly accurate blood-alcohol count.

GETTING EVIDENCE to prove that a driver was drinking excessively is not easy. All sorts of laws have been proposed and some passed. But it would appear that the best one yet may be the Baggie Bill which was before the Minnesota Legislature in 1969.

It would give policemen the right to spot check motorists for license violations and at the same time allow the officer to administer the Alcolyzer test — it just involves blowing into a plastic bag — if he feels that the driver might be drunk. The proposed bill would not authorize the use of the test as court evidence, but it would indicate to the officer whether there should be further testing.

The probable main effect would be not more successful prosecution of drunken driving charges but discouraging a drinking driver from taking off down the road for fear that he might become involved in a spot-check. It is possible that the Alcolyzer could become standard equipment in cars, certainly in bars.

Nothing will overturn the use of alcohol as a social device in our society but neither should nothing prevent us from reducing the menace to others from the man — or woman — who abuses it. And relative to driving, the proper objective is not to convict him, but to keep him off the road. — A.B.

Don't argue with Friedman

William F. Buckley

General Telephone & Electronics is advertising the undesirability of dimly-lit streets, and of course General Telephone & Electronics is correct, and the point needs to be stressed and re-stressed that darkness and crime are greatly compatible. But then one finds oneself asking, Why should General Telephone & Electronics take out display ads in order to inform us that in Gary, Ind., the addition of 5,000 bright new lights over a two-year period resulted in "70 percent fewer criminal assault incidents" than customary?

You guessed it, because GT & E would profit from other cities' doing as Gary did. On this point, the company does not pretend to be disinterested. "Where do we, General Telephone & Electronics, fit into this crusade for brighter streets? We own Sylvania, a company that, among other things, produces modern mercury and Metalarc street lamps. Naturally, we wouldn't mind seeing our name up in street lights everywhere."

FAIR ENOUGH? Not at all. The ad continues, "But before being businessmen, we're citizens. And husbands. And fathers. So we'd welcome any improvement in street lighting" — and bang, we are back into the controversy raging about the question of "the social responsibility of business."

On this question, Professor Milton Friedman wrote recently, and extensively, for the New York Times Magazine. What he said has always made sense to me, namely that "social" contributions made by publicly-owned corporations are, in fact, theft. I.e., the money belongs to the stockholders, and it is up to the stockholders to decide whether to patronize this YMCA or that chapter of the Red Cross: not the public corporation, using their money.

Mr. Friedman then enters a subtle refinement. Sure, he agrees, a corporation needs the goodwill of the community, without which it has difficulty in functioning. So that modest contributions to civic activities are, in certain circumstances, justified. But the justification must be economic, not philanthropic: the money is a cost of doing business, not a corporate expression of interest in local well-being.

Mr. Friedman's article caused a professional management magazine to wax very wrothful, and to denounce Mr. Friedman editorially. Unfortunately, there are those who feel that this proves that the editors of the management magazine are not a nice people, and that is too bad, because we are discussing here economic issues, not ethical issues. And one ought to be able to discuss them calmly and clinically.

PROFESSOR WILLMOORE Kendall used to point out, when discussions of this nature got too heavily emotionalized, that a successful surgeon does not approach the patient's appendix, scalpel in hand, declaring: "I'll get you you sunva-bitch."

It is the theory of free enterprise that anonymous mechanisms — competition, primarily — should work to keep a company's surplus to just the level it needs to be in order to prevent its stockholders from taking their investment elsewhere. The most civic-minded thing a corporation can do is: reduce the price of its product.

A successful shoe company desiring to benefit society should — lower the price of its line of shoes. That — not gifts to local charities, or profit-sharing with employees — is the impartial way of distributing its benefactions.

Moreover, in an ideal situation, it ought not to be left to management to make the decision whether to spend its excess money on local charities, or to make less money by selling its shoes at a lower rate. That decision should flow in from the mechanism of the market. Granted that in monopoly situations the competition is not there and other kinds of regulation are in order. But Sylvania has competitors.

IT IS AMUSING to recall the A. P. Smith Co. case of 1954, which is the only court case I know of that tested the question whether a corporation could give money to a university (in this case, Princeton). Yes, ruled the judge, after a show-case trial. But only because Princeton "emphasizes by precept and indoctrination the principles which are very vital to the preservation of our . . . system of business," that is to say the free enterprise system.

Never mind that the judge obviously knew nothing about Princeton. Still, one can see that the line of reasoning tends to back up the contentions of Professor Milton Friedman about the proper activities of a corporation.

The man and his monument

PARIS — The simplicity of General de Gaulle's funeral in the little village of Colombey-les-Deux-Eglises was suitable to his carefully composed public character and retiring private personality. The contrast between the modest ceremony according to his dictated wish and the splendid commemoration in Notre Dame, attended by the world's most eminent leaders, served only to underscore an essential austerity in the Fifth Republic's founder.

De Gaulle was always moved by what he called "the inexhaustible theme of the encounter between man and death." In 1965, finding him in a discursive mood during one of our occasional conversations, I posed an indiscreet question which was also a bit philosophical. He had attended the funeral of Winston Churchill earlier that year and had seen what a tremendous spectacle it was.

BECAUSE OF HIS own sense of history he must have been impressed by both the spectacle and the fact that Churchill had personally planned it. Had this incited him to make similar plans for himself? I admitted the question was lugubrious and perhaps impertinent.

"No," de Gaulle answered. "It is indeed important and I have thought about it a great deal. But my funeral will be the opposite of Churchill's. There will be no spectacle. There will be no spectacle for de Gaulle."

This mirrored the sensitive human being inside the disciplined external self devised for purposes of leadership. This was the astonishingly gentle family man who cared most tenderly for a retarded daughter and who allowed his Alsatian dog to sleep upon his bed. The public de Gaulle was far sterner than this hidden, infinitely private soul.

At the end of his career I asked what he considered the greatest success and failure in his long and eventful life. He speculated aloud: "How do you define success or failure? Only history itself can define these terms. Life is a combat and therefore each one of its phases includes both successes and failures.

"AND YOU CANNOT really say which event was a success and which event was a failure. Success contains within it the germs of failure and the reverse is also true. Certainly France suffered a terrible failure as a nation in 1940. It was catastrophic but what occurred in 1940 merely reflected what had really happened before inside France. Nevertheless, that was a failure without precedent.

"Now France has been notably re-established in its own eyes and in the eyes of the world. How far that will continue into the future we cannot see. But the comparison between France in 1940 and France today is very evident, very striking. That was a success for France and I think I have participated in this success, but no one can foresee where it will all lead."

The malpractice puzzle

Are hundreds, maybe thousands, of Americans going to die in the next year because doctors are afraid of being sued?

At what point does legal action aimed at malpractice protect patients from carelessness or rashness by doctors, and at what point does it begin to discourage intelligent medical action?

ONE OF MY doctor friends puts it this way:

"The easiest thing for a doctor to do is to do nothing. It is hard to be successfully sued for doing nothing. You could always claim that the patient's general condition precluded taking risky action, even if you knew in your own heart that without risky action the patient probably wouldn't survive."

"I know some able doctors who, after they have established their reputations and are enjoying an assured profitable practice, simply refuse the tough cases. Why take a chance on being dragged through the courts by skillful malpractice lawyers? You can always claim you are too busy, and loss the hot potatoes to younger, less experienced men."

Judith Randall, in a recent Washington Star article, reports that malpractice judgments have skyrocketed to the point where 250 of Hawaii's 850 doctors have been turned down for malpractice insurance at any price. Many of these doctors are afraid to operate without such insurance and patients may have to be sent to military hospitals.

In New York State malprac-

tice insurance premiums have quadrupled in five years and suits for $1 million in damages are not uncommon.

THE ILLINOIS Supreme Court this fall affirmed a lower court decision that hospitals would have "strict tort liability" for hepatitis transmitted in blood transfusions. According to the Oct. 19 Journal of the American Medical Association, 6.5 million units of blood are transfused annually. The National Academy of Science estimates that these result in 30,000 cases of hepatitis which may cause as many as 3,000 deaths each year.

The trouble is that there are still no reliable means of detecting the hepatitis virus in blood from apparently healthy donors. If hospitals are going to undergo great financial risks for giving blood that they cannot guarantee they may wind up by not giving blood where it is necessary and where, by all common sense, the risk should be accepted.

The medical profession in America is in the doghouse for a lot of reasons.

The image of the kindly old family doctor hitching up by lanternlight and dashing through the snowy midnight to sit at the bedside of the suffering child is shattered. The modern doctor is more inclined to prescribe three aspirin over the phone and say, "Bring the kid into my office at nine."

THE M.D.'s, however, have a pretty good rebuttal. Sitting was about the best that the old-time doctor could do. Today the equipment that really accomplishes something is at the doctor's office or over at the hospital. But, certainly, a human element is gone.

In addition, as medical costs have risen and agitation for socialized medicine increases, there is a growing public revulsion against medical bloodsuckers.

In their new book, "The Medical Offenders," Howard and Martha Lewis point to the gougers, the fee-splitters, the unnecessary operations, the high-price doctor-owned pharmacies and the men who go beyond their skills and training.

Admittedly, these evils are not the rule. But the inability of medical societies and associations to come to grips with the misbehaving minority has vastly fueled public cynicism, and may be part of the reason for the big scores recently tallied by malpractice attorneys, many of whom are gambling on contingent fees.

THE MEDICAL profession is going to have to do better on self-policing than it has. But at the same time, courts and juries had better take a long look down the malpractice judgment road. Doctors can be sued into a degree of paralysis that could endanger us all.

The juror toying with the idea of granting a malpractice bonanza had better consider that the next doctor scared to do anything might be the one called for him.

SURVIVOR

The weakness of greatness

NEW YORK — Now that Charles de Gaulle is gone, it is clear that the remaining political managers of the world are a different breed from the heroic leaders of the last generation. Even on his way to the grave, the dead de Gaulle somehow managed to retain the gift of grace, even a glint of magic, and make the living Presidents and Prime Ministers seem rather plain.

Still, after you admire the ability of a man to direct his life and manage his death, you have to move on with due reverent haste, to an awkward question. Does heroic leadership really work? What does it leave behind? What of the weakness of greatness?

FOR CHARLES de Gaulle — for himself and his own nationalistic vision of his mission — his leadership worked. He restored the confidence of a defeated nation, and he may have established presidential authority and political stability in his new Constitution. This is quite an achievement, but is it a model for the coming age?

Dramatic personal leadership in the post-war world has not been a great success. It is good theater and good journalism. It is a positive and often decisive force in old defeated countries and new struggling countries for a time, but the record of the last quarter century suggests that the theatrical politicians are better at making headlines than in making history.

President Nasser in Egypt came to power to create a social revolution and lift his people out of misery, but got diverted by the power of his personality into dreams of an Arab empire and the conquest of Israel, and in the end he lost his wars against Israel, his revolution to the Arab guerrillas, and his life. He was a remarkable personality, in many ways a good man, but life is too short, and charismatic leadership somehow didn't work.

THE POSTWAR world has produced quite a few leaders who repeated their own versions of this same story of limited success. Kwame Nkrumah led Ghana to independence through the force of his personality and then overplayed his hand and was overthrown in 1966.

Norodom Sihanouk in Cambodia, Sukarno in Indonesia, Habib Bourguiba in Tunisia — all in different circumstances — dramatized the politics of personality and propaganda but have run into deep trouble. Fidel Castro has had a comparable experience: He has mastered the arts of being popular, but not the complicated problems of growing sugar cane, exporting and importing, or governing the urban and rural populations of his island.

So maybe there is something to be said for the remaining world leaders at the De Gaulle memorial service at Notre Dame in Paris who seemed such a dim and undramatic lot. In the company of mourners, we did not have the leadership symbols of a generation ago. We had Pompidou instead of De Gaulle, Richard Nixon instead of Franklin Roosevelt, Nikolai V. Podgorny instead of Stalin, Edward Heath instead of Winston Churchill.

It cannot be an accident that suddenly the world has run out of heroic leaders, and that the managers, the technicians and the bureaucrats have taken over in all the major capitals of the world.

IT CANNOT BE explained by ideology. The plain fact is that we have no spectacular personalities left like de Gaulle in world politics, no dominant philosophers or preachers, or editors or university presidents.

In personal terms, in national terms, his life was a triumph. He dramatized the 19th-Century ideal of the leader. There was never a suggestion of material or moral corruption in his personal life, but his ideal of personal leadership, glorious as it was to him and for France, does not really work in a world where individualism and nationalism are overwhelmed by the larger needs of common action to deal with common problems in the world.

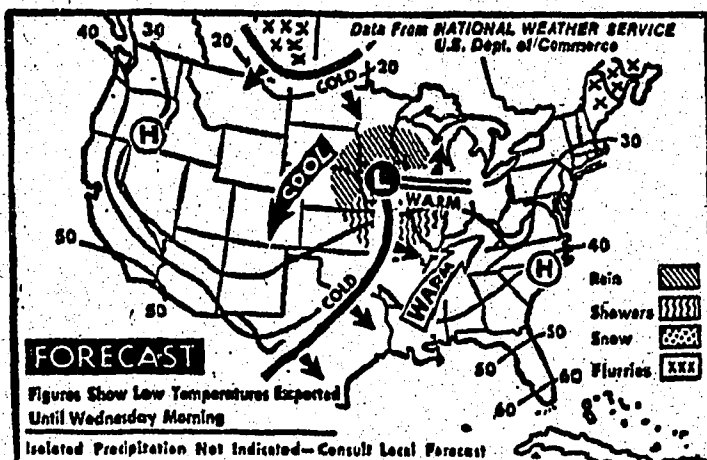

What de Gaulle proved, like Nasser, Bourguiba, Sihanouk, Nkrumah, Sukarno, Castro and many others since the end of the last world war, is that personal leadership may be exciting and may work for a while, but it is not decisive. The modern problems of economics, military arms, imports, exports, unemployment, hunger, balance of payments and all the rest are too complicated to be banished by charisma, by personal magnetism and eloquence.

DE GAULLE is a symbol of our regret. He fought for the nostalgic and lost world of our dreams — and therefore many people wept at his grave. But it is not an accident that the remaining mourners and leaders of the world — Nixon, Heath, Pompidou, Brezhnev, Kosygin, Brandt, Sato — see rather dull and pedestrian. For they are dealing with the dull and pedestrian problems of the world, and it may be that in the end they will deal with these complicated and devilish problems more effectively than the heroic leaders of the past.

Dear Abby:

Fortune teller's tale a fake

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: About five years ago my husband went to a fortune teller. She told him that he was going to be married "soon," but that marriage wouldn't last very long, but he shouldn't worry because soon afterwards he would meet someone else and she would be his true love.

Well, that fortune teller was wrong there because my husband was already married to me, but then she went on to tell him lots of other things and she really hit the nail right on the head. Like she told him he wasn't very close to his mother, which was absolutely right. He can't stand his mother.

But here's the part that really has been bothering me, Abby. She told my husband that he was going to die as a result of something that would "pierce" him — like a bullet or a knife, or maybe a piece of metal in a car accident. But she wouldn't say when. This keeps me so upset I can't sleep nights. I have been crying my heart out because I love him dearly. Do you think fortune tellers can really look into the future?

Abby
WORRIED SICK

DEAR WORRIED: No. Quit worrying.

DEAR ABBY: My mother says I need psychiatric help and I'd like to know what you think before I go in for something I don't need.

My first husband left me, and my mother keeps telling me how happy he is with his second wife, which tears me apart because I still care for him a lot.

I am not getting along very well with my second husband and my mother keeps pressing me for details of our problems. I don't really want to tell her but she keeps after me until I finally spill everything just to shut her up. Besides, a person has to talk to someone.

My mother keeps telling me she wishes I had never been born, that I can't do anything right and she brings up every mistake I ever made. I am not making excuses for myself as I have made plenty of mistakes.

What should I do? I am terribly depressed.

MISTAKES GALORE

DEAR MISTAKES: I think your mother is right. You do need psychiatric help. And from what you tell me about your mother, you'll need a psychiatrist with two couches. She could use some help, too.

DEAR ABBY: When a woman leaves her husband and children for another man, should the children be told the truth in a manner that they can understand, or should they be told that their mother is away in a hospital, somewhere sick?

It seems to me that children today understand a lot more about life than grown-ups give them credit for. Please put your answer in the paper. It may mean a lot to the children.

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: You are right. Children do understand more than grown-ups give them credit for. Furthermore, when they learn, as they are bound to, that they have been lied to, their confidence and faith in grown-ups is seriously impaired. The truth may hurt. But a lie hurts more.

DEAR ABBY: I, too, am a good secretary, but if my boss tried to show his appreciation by putting his arms around me, I would look for a new boss.

You hit the nail on the head, Abby. The way for a boss to show his appreciation is to "try money."

Your horoscope — Jeane Dixon

For WEDNESDAY, Nov. 18

Your birthday today: Now you can probably make definite progress in fresh arrangements of both career and home life. New starts become increasingly easier as the year matures and you get used to different conditions. You find your responses changed, partly toward increased acceptance of things and people, partly toward making definite firmly willed choices. Today's natives are interested in unusual ideas, willing to take personal risks to see their plans brought into reality.

Jeane

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Your creative efforts suffer interruptions, faltering attention in the early hours, but improve in the afternoon. Bring home something nice for your loved ones.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Money matters should be left pretty much as they are. Routine proceeds well once the distraction of the morning is solved. Gather friends tonight and celebrate.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Much useful information arrives, but you must wait to use it. Expect complications from contrary people. The evening is excellent for experimentation with a new idea.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You help everyone better through healthy self-interest, by caring for your own interests first. Financial deals require caution; leave nothing to chance or delegate to friends.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Concentrate on those things which require little cooperation. Some conflict exists between home and career interests — leave work promptly and head for home.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): By keeping opinions to yourself and investigating quietly, you come out well informed. It is not yet time to close deals. Pray for intuition on family success.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Friends now open doors for you, perhaps unwittingly. Financial matters are confusing in the morning, more amenable to changes later. A dream of yours is a bit nearer completion.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Tensions develop in home affairs. Don't let your reactions interfere with your work. Self-discipline brings future gains. Pray for guidance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Personal plans and experiments are favored for study rather than full-scale application. Give thought to your health care. Later hours may bring an unplanned expense.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Group financial projects march ahead, while your individual efforts go off the mark. There are things you need to know. Spend a little for something that symbolizes your real feelings.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You may be discontented with your economic progress. Family ties seem less enjoyable. Career matters are favored, however, and include long-awaited welcome news. Keep busy.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Your work counts for more today. Be systematic and thorough; expect slightly higher expenses — and better returns. Gather friends tonight for spirited conversation.

Candlelight ceremony joins pair at Blair

BLAIR, Wis. (Special) — In a candlelight service Saturday Miss Pamela Jean Swinghamer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ida Swenson, Blair, became the bride of David Allen Woyicki, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Woyicki, rural Eltrick. The double-ring ceremony was performed at the First Lutheran Church by the Rev. K. M. Urberg.

Mrs. K. M. Urberg was organist and soloist was Mrs. Mark Hanson who was accompanied by Miss Mary Hanson.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her stepfather, chose a gown of candlelight peau de sole with bugle beads and crystal alencon lace. Motifs of lace trimmed the empire bodice, mid-Victorian neckline and teacup sleeves, which were edged with lace. The peau de sole skirt was accented by alencon lace and her detachable wattleau train was chapel length. A candlelight silk Camelot headpiece secured her pure silk English illusion bouffant elbow-length veil. She carried a bouquet of light yellow roses, accented by a brown satin bow.

Miss Lynda Malchaski, River Falls, was the bride's maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Nancy Olson and Miss Kay Tranberg. Their identical styled pant dresses were made of chiffon over taffeta, featuring empire bodices and long cuffed sleeves in brown, gold and green. Their shoulder-length veils were held in place with a satin bow, and they carried light brown woven baskets with yellow and orange mums.

John Woyicki, rural Eltrick, served as best man for his brother, and groomsmen were David Rawson and Peter Helm. Ushers were Ronald Hamilton and John M. Berg.

A wedding dinner was held at the Green Meadow Supper Club and a reception and dance followed.

The bride is a graduate of Blair High School and before her marriage was a waitress at the Green Meadow Supper Club. The bridegroom is a graduate of Blair High School.

After a wedding trip they will reside at rural Eltrick where the bridegroom is engaged in farming.

Food, nutrition study completed by Jackson County home economist

BLACK RIVER FALLS, Wis. (Special) — Mrs. Nyla Musser, Jackson County home economist, has completed a special 37-page report on the Expanded Food and Nutrition program. Mrs. Musser was one of two members of the National Association of Home Economists to receive the $500 Grace Frysinger Fellowship to study and observe extension work in other states.

The Federal Extension Service assisted in the selection of the states of Washington, Oregon and Minnesota, where Mrs. Musser went for study and personal interviews.

"I requested states where they had Indian population such as we have in Jackson County," Mrs. Musser said. Her detailed report involved the work of program assistants, state and county home economists, extension aides and assistants which will be of value throughout the United States where the federally funded program is in operation.

"Some $50 million dollars have been appropriated for the Expanded Food and Nutrition Education program and this amount may be doubled in the future," she said. None of the states involved in the program have any special committees making a study of the EFNE program.

Jackson County was one of seven counties in Wisconsin to be included in the pilot project begun in January of 1969, the same time as the states of Oregon, Minnesota and Washington began working with low-income families in the program geared to teach better nutrition.

"I felt it was to the advantage of Jackson County to see how other states were functioning and what their major concerns were in trying to help families improve their way of life through improved food and nutrition habits," she said.

Following the film, small group discussions were led by Mrs. Ann Sawyer, Miss Jean Dotsett, the Rev. Glenn Quam and Dr. Henry Van Kirk.

Mrs. Joseph Stoltman reported on the pictures that have been taken at the school and also about the retake pictures which are planned for the future, when pre-schoolers may also be present for pictures.

Lunch was served.

Some juvenile delinquents to get work assignments

The City Council Monday evening authorized the utilization of certain juveniles who have committed delinquent acts in a special work program involving activities not otherwise covered by city employees or contracted firms.

In his report, City Manager Carroll J. Fry said the program had been suggested by Winona County Juvenile Court Judge S. A. Sawyer. Judge Sawyer's rationale for such a program, said Fry, is to allow delinquent juveniles the opportunity to gain a feeling of responsibility by making amends, in some way, to the community for the irritation and disturbance they have created.

THE JUVENILES would be supervised by city employees, Fry said, but only to the extent of being directed in their work. The supervisor or would not be responsible for keeping the juvenile in custody, he said, and no overtime would be authorized for city employees who acted as supervisors.

The youths would work, Fry said, on activities such as snow removal from around parking meters, the Latsch Island area, the airport, and custodial work around City Hall. The work, he said, would be of the type that normally would not be done due to lack of personnel and time.

Councilmen voted unanimously to authorize the city manager to work up this type of program in cooperation with the juvenile court.

FRY FURTHER reported to councilmen that as a result of an article appearing in the newsletter of the Municipal Finance Officers' Association of

The United States and Canada, the city has received 12 requests for copies of its city budget for 1970. The performance and program approach taken in that budget aroused considerable interest in various parts of the country, he said.

Inquiries were received from the cities of Mobile, Ala.; Council Bluffs, Iowa; Dallas, Ore.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Broomfield, Colo.; Northfield, Ill.; Paterson, N.J.; and Raleigh, N.C. Also requesting copies of the budget were several accounting firms, research bureaus and the Minnesota public examiner.

In his report, Fry also submitted the parking meter activity report for October. Collections from meters for the month totaled $3,583 compared with $4,574 for September and $3,808 for October 1969.

Harmony to elect three on Dec. 8
HARMONY, Minn. (Special) — There will be an election in Harmony Dec. 8 to elect men for the two vacancies on the Harmony council and one justice of peace.

Four have filed for the two councilman vacancies: William Tolleson, Robert Rosedahl, Charles Smutny and Stanley Griebel. No one has filed for justice of peace.

Also scheduled in this improvement program is two-way, toll-free dialing (extended area service) between La Crescent and La Crosse, Wis. To make toll-free dialing possible, more than 100 trunks will be installed between La Crescent and La Crosse.

In La Crescent, a street network of ducts and manholes will be installed in 1971, for underground cable.

In 1955, when Ace acquired the La Crescent Telephone Co., there were 517 subscribers in the La Crescent exchange. An engineering and design study in 1955, of La Crescent's expected five-year growth, predicted 400 new homes would be built. This goal was achieved by 1960.

Now Ace serves 1,330 La Crescent exchange subscribers who use a total of 1,800 telephones including extensions.

When Ace acquired the exchange in 1955 there were about 3,500 calls monthly both ways, between La Crescent and La Crosse. Today the two-way total exceeds 25,000 monthly.

Curtis E. Bratager, La Crescent, has been appointed east district manager. Douglas D. Sires, who resides at New Albin, manages three exchanges — New Albin, Highlandville, Elitzen, John F. Johnson, Waterville, manages the Waterville and Harpers Ferry exchanges.

Central office equipment foreman Virgil G. Bjorge, La Crescent, is in charge of the district's central office equipment maintenance.

The district's four combination men are Robert V. Langen and Milford M. McKay, La Crescent; David C. Schroeder, Houston, and Darrell E. Busness, Waterville.

Mrs. Bruce Willford, La Crescent Rt. 1, is commercial clerk in the new office.

Egypt, Libya, Sudan endorse Syrian coup

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Egypt, Libya and Sudan endorsed today Gen. Hafez Assad's coup in Syria and said they were ready to admit Syria as a fourth partner in their projected federation.

Libya's head of state, Col. Muammar Kadafi, made the declaration on behalf of the three Arab countries after a 24-hour visit to Damascus, Syria's capital.

His statement was broadcast by the state-controlled Damascus radio.

Egypt and Syria were linked in the United Arab Republic in 1958 but it collapsed in three years.

In an earlier broadcast, Assad said the planned federation has "rekindled the hopes of the Arab masses in an early Arab unity."

Assad, Syria's defense minister and the leader of the ruling Baath Socialist party's military wing, on Friday ousted President Nouruddin Atassi and arrested Atassi and Maj. Gen. Salah Jadid. A coup by the army preceded Syria's withdrawal in September 1961 from the United Arab Republic, the effort by the late President Gamal Abdel Nasser to unify the Arab nations. At its height, the alliance included only Syria, Egypt and Yemen, and Nasser broke it up after Syria withdrew.

Assad announced Monday he had formed a provisional Baath command to rule until a party congress selects a new permanent leadership. His government will form a coalition with other leftist political organizations in Syria, he said, and there were reports that pro-Egyptian parties, banned under Jadid would be asked to join the coalition.

Diplomats in Beirut reported that Assad is beginning a purge of the ousted regime's supporters. A Beirut newspaper reported that 70 politicians and army officers have asked asylum in Lebanon.

Pro-Egyptian newspapers in Beirut predicted that Assad's administration would end Syria's persistent rejection of a peaceful settlement with Israel, but Assad said Monday night the U.S.-sponsored plan for indirect peace talks with U.N. envoy Gunnar Jarring as the go-between is a "surrender." Observers believed that the statement was politically obligatory to keep Jadid's followers in line.

Sudan also had a government shakeup, with President Jaafar el Numairi removing two vice premiers and his interior minister because "certain elements, which claim to be progressive, opposed the revolution."

Thirteen army officers were reported removed from their positions because of suspected communist sympathies.

Winona County 4-H elects officer slate

LEWISTON, Minn. — Cleo Kryzer, Lewiston, was elected president of the Winona County 4-H Federation at the meeting of the group, held at Lewiston High School Monday.

Other officers elected were Ray Radatz, Lewiston, vice president; Ann Marie Schell, Minneka, secretary; Jane Laska, Winona, treasurer; Peggy Kryzer, Lewiston, song leader, and Teri Dabelstein, St. Charles, historian.

Adult members named to the executive council were Mrs. Russell Terbeest, Rollingstone; Russell Wirt, Lewiston, and Miss Sandra Pittelko, Winona.

Members were reminded that club enrollment is due Dec. 1, and were urged to enroll new members.

It was announced that the County 4-H Leaders banquet, sponsored by the Winona area Chamber of Commerce, will be held at Kryzko Commons, Winona State College, Dec. 8.

The date of the county 4-H speaking contest has been set for Jan. 30, the contest to be held in Winona.

The club again will sponsor the city basketball team, whose players are Larry Fletcher, Arlyn and Duane Steien, Kerry and William Hulett, Kenneth Hjernevik, James Nelson, Jerry Chrisinger, Richard Ofte and Duane Hulett.

The team so far has chalked up two wins against Gilmanton and Cadott with no defeats. The next game will be played at Taylor against Alma Center.

NEW TELEPHONE OFFICE . . . A new East District office has been opened at La Crescent, Minn., by Ace Telephone Association, Houston, Minn.-based independent telephone company. This is the first step in a $600,000 improvement program for the La Crescent exchange.

Ace Telephone opens office at La Crescent

LA CRESCENT, Minn. — As the first step in a $600,000 improvement program for the La Crescent exchange, Ace Telephone Association has opened a new east district office here, General Manager Robert W. Bunke announced.

The Houston, Minn.-based independent telephone company, which is observing its 20th anniversary, has leased 2,300 square feet of space on two levels at 34 S. Walnut St. adjoining Heth Hardware.

Served by this new commercial-plant district office are subscribers in nine exchanges: Minnesota — La Crescent, Browns-ville, Hokah, Dakota and Eitzen; Iowa—Waterville, Harpers Ferry, New Albin and Highlandville.

Loan arrangements have been completed to finance the cost of this improvement program.

ACE has outlined the following plans for the La Crescent exchange which is the largest of the 16 exchanges Ace serves in Southeastern Minnesota and northeastern Iowa.

In 1971 an addition will be built to the west side of the La Crescent office to house new crossbar switching equipment. The present office is 22 by 66 feet; the addition will be about 40 by 70 feet and possibly two stories.

Ace hopes to let contracts in the near future. The building itself will cost about $87,000. However, the equipment will cost about $400,000.

Direct distance dialing is expected to be provided in 1972 after the new switching equipment and cable are installed. The centralized automatic message accounting center at Winona will handle billing of La Crescent DDD calls.

Also scheduled in this improvement program is two-way, toll-free dialing (extended area service) between La Crescent and La Crosse, Wis. To make toll-free dialing possible, more than 100 trunks will be installed between La Crescent and La Crosse.

In La Crescent, a street network of ducts and manholes will be installed in 1971, for underground cable.

In 1955, when Ace acquired the La Crescent Telephone Co., there were 517 subscribers in the La Crescent exchange. An engineering and design study in 1955, of La Crescent's expected five-year growth, predicted 400 new homes would be built. This goal was achieved by 1960.

Now Ace serves 1,330 La Crescent exchange subscribers who use a total of 1,800 telephones including extensions.

When Ace acquired the exchange in 1955 there were about 3,500 calls monthly both ways, between La Crescent and La Crosse. Today the two-way total exceeds 25,000 monthly.

Curtis E. Bratager, La Crescent, has been appointed east district manager. Douglas D. Sires, who resides at New Albin, manages three exchanges — New Albin, Highlandville, Elitzen, John F. Johnson, Waterville, manages the Waterville and Harpers Ferry exchanges.

Central office equipment foreman Virgil G. Bjorge, La Crescent, is in charge of the district's central office equipment maintenance.

The district's four combination men are Robert V. Langen and Milford M. McKay, La Crescent; David C. Schroeder, Houston, and Darrell E. Busness, Waterville.

Mrs. Bruce Willford, La Crescent Rt. 1, is commercial clerk in the new office.

Curb, gutter jobs approved

A certificate of completion and acceptance of curb and gutter projects in the total amount of $34,205.77 were approved by the City Council Monday night.

The project included installation of curb and gutter and miscellaneous related work in the Pleasant Valley Terrace Subdivision, Erpelding Addition, Johnstone addition and on Chaffield Street from 2nd to Front streets.

Ralph A. Scharmer was the contractor.

The council also set a hearing date of Dec. 21 at City Hall to consider the proposed assessment for the work against property owners involved.

The proposal calls for $28,422.03 of the total amount to be assessed with the balance, $5,783.74, coming from the general storm sewer fund.

Fire code adopted
The council Monday night adopted an ordinance amending the city code to allow the adoption of the 1970 edition of the Fire Prevention Code recommended by the American Insurance Association.

The Fire Prevention Code under which the city had been operating had been published in 1965.

Land rezoned
The council unanimously approved an ordinance for the rezoning of land lying east of Winona Area Technical School from the R-S (suburban residential) classification to R-3 (multi-family) and a portion to R-1 (single family). The plan had been approved by the council Nov. 2.

The zoning change was requested by the Kendell Corp., a potential developer of the area.

The rezoning was a compromise on an initial request by the corporation for the changing of the entire 11-acre plot to R-3. The westerly part — next to existing homes — received the R-1 designation to serve as a buffer to the projected multi-family dwellings.

Meter eliminated

The council authorized the elimination of a parking meter on Lafayette Street adjacent to the drive-up window of the Merchants National Bank.

The bank had requested that the meter, just north of the most northerly drive-up window, be removed to eliminate a traffic hazard caused by autos leaving the window and having to drive into the middle of the street before entering the traffic flow.

City Manager Carroll J. Fry recommended that the request be granted and approval by the council was unanimous.

Airport lease

Councilmen approved a year-long lease Monday night with Viking International Airfreight, Inc., for the use of facilities at Max Conrad Field. The lease was authorized by council action Nov. 2.

The lease provisions call for the rental of space in the airport terminal for an annual fee of $600 plus fees of $1 for each landing the airline makes at the field.

Other provisions of the lease agreement provide that the airline furnish the council with copies of insurance certificates for public liability and property damage insurance.

Final goodbyes for family scheduled Thursday

Jim Fremberg: he fought for living, then never had fighting chance

By JOHN LUNDQUIST
SUNBURG, Minn. (AP) — They'll say and pray their final earthly goodbyes Thursday to the Fremberg family.

"Jim Fremberg," as he styled himself on the roadside mailbox, was the husky man who battled for a living off a sloping farmyard site near Sunburg in west-central Minnesota. But apparently he didn't have a fighting chance when he and his family were cut down by shotgun slugs fired close range at their heads during the weekend.

Relatives and friends will gather at 2:15 p.m. Thursday at the New London-Spicer High School auditorium to pay respects. Services are being held at the school because there isn't a church in the Sunburg-New London area big enough to hold the expected crowd.

Then, the 40-year-old Fremberg and his wife, Gloria, 29, and Patricia, 8, David, 7, and Douglas, 4, will be laid under the sod of Oak Hill Cemetery, where frost whiten the hardening ground these late autumn mornings.

At Willmar, Kandiyohi County authorities are holding a 23-year-old former mental patient in the slayings. He is scheduled to be arraigned Wednesday, when the case also is to be heard by the grand jury. Sheriff Harvey Spaulding said the St. Cloud, Minn., man spent seven months in the Air Force and was a patient at the Veterans Administration Hospital in St. Cloud for two years. He was an outpatient most of the time and was discharged the past July, said Spaulding.

Authorities said the young man and his father had been deer hunting in the area of the farm five miles northeast of Sunburg during the weekend.

Delbert Peterson, who came to make a bulk milk pickup at the farm at 10 a.m. Sunday, discovered the multiple slayings. He went to the barn and found Fremberg's body sprawled on the floor, the milk machine running and bellowing cattle waiting to be milked and fed. He thought the farmer had had a heart attack.

At the house, he found the body of Mrs. Fremberg in a pool of blood, her head blown apart by a shotgun slug. Peterson, shaking with fright, got help.

Officers found the bodies of the pajama-clad children, all similarly slain, in a small, second-story bedroom, where no pictures graced the walls. The green-painted room was speckled with red.

Mrs. Fremberg had fallen beside a dining room table cluttered with dishes of a completed meal. On a nearby wall hung the familiar crocheted motto: "Give us this day our daily bread."

The living room, which had served as a free-for-all arena for the kids, was strewn with toy blocks, tractors, canoe, gun and holster, books and shoes. A witch's costume and pumpkins taped to the windows were reminders of Halloween.

In town, where the Frembergs went for groceries, feed or other supplies, folks who knew them well called them friendly, fine people.

For legislative spokesman

Wisconsin Democrats pick Huber

By ARTHUR L. SRB
MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Democratic state representatives have turned to a battle-tested veteran, Rep. Robert Huber of West Allis, as their top spokesman for the 1971 Wisconsin Legislature.

Huber, whose 24 years in assembly include a session, as speaker in 1965, was unanimously elected to the powerful post at a closed-door caucus of the 67 Democrats Monday.

Rep. Norman Anderson of Madison defeated Rep. Mark Lipscomb of Milwaukee for majority leader, 34-33.

Following his defeat, Lipscomb challenged Rep. Herbert Grover of Shawano for the job of assistant majority leader and lost by 13 votes.

The defeats gave rise to speculation that Lipscomb might take aim at the Senate seat to be vacated Jan. 4 when Sen. Martin Schreiber of Milwaukee is sworn in as lieutenant governor.

Democrats elected Rep. William Rogers of Kaukauna as caucus chairman, Rep. Gerald Kleczka of Milwaukee as vice chairman, and Rep. Joseph Sweday of Lublin as speaker pro tem.

Selection of an Assembly chief clerk and sergeant-at-arms was postponed until Dec. 14.

Huber, 50, said the top priority of Assembly Democrats will be to enact legislation dealing with tax reform and effective air and water pollution control, two of Democratic Gov.-Elect Patrick Lucey's campaign themes.

Huber said he believed the session will be productive despite the fact that Republicans maintain a solid 20-12 margin in the Senate.

"I've had experience in divided government before," Huber said, "and I think this can be accomplished without too much trouble."

Asked if he thought the 67-vote clout possessed by Assembly Democrats might make them "arrogant," Huber replied: "There's no question but what our members have a clear memory of the outgoing 'Republican arrogance and they don't intend to emulate it."

Speaker Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, received word Monday he will be challenged in his bid for minority leader by Rep. James Azim of Muscoda, who said the GOP should turn to more moderate leaders.

Azim, who blamed Froehlich for the poor showing by Assembly Republicans at the polls Nov. 3, said he was confident he had a chance to round up 17 votes in his effort to sidetrack Froehlich for leader of the 33 minority Republicans.

Froehlich earlier declared he had already received commitments from 22 GOP colleagues, five more than necessary to gain the minority leadership post.

Mrs. H. A. Moen, copartner with her husband in a dry goods and grocery, recalled that 4-year-old Douglas recently came to the store with his mother. "It was kind of trivial, but cute," she said. "He liked to copy his dad, and he told me 'I've got to buy candy for my children.'"

Feed dealer John Solonski called the muscular Fremberg a hard worker. "Every time I was out there, he was always busy," said Solonski. "It looked like he was just starting to get the farm going again."

Pastor H. B. Baldwin of Lebanon Lutheran Church at New London, also described Fremberg as a busy man struggling to get the farm on its feet. "I hear he practically had the mortgage paid off," said the minister. "They had their heads above water."

Relatives have rallied to pick up the pieces at a farm where some 40 milk cows and more than a dozen calves need daily attention.

Irvin Olson, an uncle of Mrs. Fremberg, drove Monday from his farm 11 miles away to tend to chores in a pickup truck with two young helpers. "He wasn't one to get in trouble," Olson remembered

Jim Fremberg. The "trouble" Fremberg leaves behind is the same kind he enjoyed in the combat of keeping up a 160-acre crop and dairy farm, while scrambling for other chores that begged for attention until children grow up.

There's the pickup truck standing idle with flat tire; the hay rake crying for a handyman's wrench and oil; the window frames that need glass in the outbuildings; the aqua-colored house that should have been painted several seasons ago; and the half-opened septic tank that needs repair beside the house.

Roger Millers have a new daughter

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Roger Miller, composer and singer whose song "King of the Road" elevated him to prominence, has a potential new fan: a daughter.

The baby, as yet unnamed, was born Monday to the entertainer's wife, Leah, 27, at Good Samaritan Hospital.

Wisconsin Legislature pressured on salaries

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Pressure is being generated in some quarters for the Wisconsin Legislature to hike salaries of state constitutional officers before the 1971 session convenes in January.

Approval of pay boosts by the legislature and Gov. Warren P. Knowles would enable Democratic Gov.-Elect Patrick Lucey and other state officers to draw higher pay upon taking office.

The legislative OK would have to come before Knowles leaves office Jan. 4, however, because salaries of state officers cannot be raised during their terms of office.

Knowles receives $25,000 a year and ranks about 160th from the top of the list of high-salaried state officers.

Atty. Gen. Robert Warren receives $20,000 annually, while Secretary of State Robert Zimmerman and State Treasurer Harold Clemens each draw $13,500. Lt. Gov. Jack Olson receives $7,500 as presiding officer over the Senate. Olson and Clemens will leave office with Knowles in January.

"These salaries aren't adequate," a spokesman for Knowles said, "and we know there is support for increases."

"But the governor probably would frown on an attempt to hike salaries for persons after they have been elected to office."

The governor believes, the spokesman said, that people who seek office should know in advance what the salary will be and be satisfied with it.

Several prominent lawmakers argued during the last session that the salaries of constitutional officers should be hiked.

In fact, Sen. Ernest Keppler, GOP majority leader from Sheboygan, and Rep.

Paul Alfonsi, Republican Assembly majority leader from Minocqua, said one reason they did not seek the nomination for lieutenant governor was the $7,500 salary.

Whether they would support a move to boost the salaries before Jan. 4 was not known, however, since three new state officers — Lucey, Lt. Gov.-Elect Martin Schreiber and State Treasurer — Elect Charles Smith — are Democrats.

The Knowles administration has discussed the possibility of a special session before January to deal with the confirmation of recent appointees of the Republican governor.

If they are not confirmed before Knowles leaves office, the appointees could be replaced by persons selected by Lucey.

A special session, however, might open the door to a host of subjects, including salary hikes.

Maryland physician hits at state's abortion laws

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — A Maryland physician testified Monday that an 1886 Minnesota law which prohibits abortions except to save the mother's life is inconsistent with modern medical ethics and practices.

Dr. Irvin M. Cushman, associate professor of gynecology and obstetrics at Johns Hopkins Medical School, Baltimore, Md., was one of several physicians called as witnesses by the defense in an effort to show the law is unconstitutional.

Dr. Jane Hodgson, 55, a St. Paul gynecologist who has admitted performing an abortion on a woman who had contracted German measles (rubella) early in pregnancy, is being tried on criminal abortion charges in Ramsey County District Court.

Dr. Cushman, in response to questioning by defense attorney Roy Lucas, said there are four pregnancy situations in which abortion is generally recommended.

One of these, he said, is when it can be shown the child has a greater than normal chance of being born with deformities or abnormalities.

The woman on whom the abortion was performed last April, Mrs. Nancy Kaye Widmyre, 24, of a suburban community near St. Paul, testified last week Dr. Hodgson had told her there was a 60 per cent chance her baby would be abnormal.

Dr. Cushman, who has testified in three other cases dealing with abortion laws, said every medical textbook published in the last 20 years "concludes that maternal rubella in early pregnancy can be a justification for therapeutic abortion."

"It is accepted medical practice today that there are many reasons for abortions other than the preservation of the life of the mother," he said.

Policies of the American Medical Association and the American College of Gynecologists and Obstetricians generally leave the question of whether an abortion is to be performed up to the doctor and patient, he said.

Another held in LeVander plot

ST. PAUL (AP)—Police were holding a young St. Paul man Monday on a traffic charge and another local warrant of undisclosed nature.

Police Capt. Ernest Williams said the man, aged 20, was arrested late Sunday about one-half block from the governor's mansion in St. Paul.

Police believed the man had been in contact with Ronald L. Reed, 20, arrested Friday in an alleged plot to kidnap Gov. Harold LeVander and hijack an airliner with the aim of freeing a number of "political prisoners."

Reed, a black, appeared before U.S. Commissioner Bernard Zimpher in the heavily guarded Ramsey County jail Monday on charges of conspiracy to commit aircraft piracy and possession of a sawed-off shotgun. Zimpher boosted Reed's bail from $150,000—previously the highest in Minnesota history—to $225,000. The federal case against Reed was continued until next Tuesday.

Police said notes found on Reed indicated he planned to kidnap LeVander and Mrs. Walter (Rosalia) Butler, a St. Paul councilwoman, and hijack an airplane.

The prisoners whose freedom was sought, Police said, included black activist Angela Davis, 26, jailed in New York on California murder conspiracy charges; George Jackson, awaiting murder charges at Soledad prison in California; and Bobby Seale, charged in Connecticut with conspiracy to murder a Black Panther member.

Police said the alleged plot also aimed at the release of three persons jailed in St. Paul: Larry L. Clark, accused of attempted robbery of an Omaha, Neb., bank; Gary Hogan, 17, charged as an adult in the bombing of a St. Paul department store; and Constance L. Trimble, 18, charged with first-degree murder in the shooting death last spring of St. Paul Policeman James Sackett.

Third highest winning total ever

'Anderson'—name with punch

By GERRY NELSON

ST. PAUL (AP) — The state Canvassing Board certified results of Minnesota's Nov. 3 election today, showing again that the name "Anderson" packs a potent political punch in the North Star state.

DFL'er Wendell R. Anderson won the governor's office with 788,256 votes, the third highest winning total ever cast in races for governor in Minnesota.

Anderson's total has been surpassed by only two other winning governors—Republican C. Elmer Anderson in 1952 and Republican Elmer L. Anderson in 1960. DFL'er Orville L. Freeman hit nearly 761,000 votes in a losing effort in 1960.

Governor-elect Wendell Anderson defeated Republican Douglas Head by 116,141 votes, the largest margin for a gubernatorial winner since 1958.

Official figures showed that a constitutional amendment lowering the voting age to 19 passed by a narrow 6,186 votes. Voters approved another constitutional change dealing with tax-exempt property by nearly 300,000 votes.

Hubert H. Humphrey won election to the U.S. Senate by a whopping 20,231 votes over Republican Clark MacGregor, with Humphrey getting 58.1 percent of the vote.

The total voter turnout was 1,388,525, almost precisely what had been forecast by the secretary of state's office.

In the closest statewide race, Republican Rolland F. Hatfield won the state auditor's post by only 9,731 votes over DFL'er Jon Wefald.

Republican Arlen Erdahl became secretary of state by a margin of 10,141 over DFL'er Daniel D. Donovan.

DFL'er Rudy Perpich was elected lieutenant governor by 17,263 votes over Republican Ben Boo.

Republican Val Bjornson won re-election as state treasurer by more than 121,000 votes and was the only Republican to top 700,000 votes in the statewide races.

DFL'er Warren R. Spannaus won the attorney general's race by 36,069 votes over Republican Robert A. Forsythe.

The closest congressional race was in the 3rd District, where Republican William Frenzel won by 2,780 votes over DFL'er George Rice.

The highest single vote in any race was the 969,974 "yes" votes cast for amendment No. 1, allowing the legislature to define tax exempt property.

The highest vote for an individual was 961,245 for Supreme Court Judge Walter F. Rogosheske, who was unopposed.

The official election totals were certified by a canvassing board consisting of retiring Secretary of State Joseph L. Donovan, Supreme Court Judges William F. Murphy and James C. Otis, and District Judges David E. Marsden and Crane Winton.

It was the final such meeting for Donovan, who retires at the end of the year after serving since 1955. He did not seek re-election.

Newly-elected state officials will take office Jan. 4, 1971.

Princess Grace hosts London charity gala

LONDON (AP) — Grace Kelly has made a brief return to show business for the first time since she married Prince Rainier in 1956 and became Her Serene Highness Princess Grace of Monaco.

She acted as mistress of ceremonies Monday night at a charity gala called the "Night of Nights" and starring Frank Sinatra and Bob Hope.

The princess was a last-minute stand-in for ailing Sir Noel Coward.

Screen star Raquel Welch and television's David Frost were among those who made appearances at the show, staged for

Manson vetoed on self representation

By LINDA DEUTSCH

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I want a chance to defend my children," said Charles Manson—gesturing at three women co-defendants—in his latest plea for the right to act as his own lawyer in the Sharon Tate murder trial.

But, as the state rested its case Monday, the judge turned him down once again.

The leader of a communal "family" made the emotional request as the court was about to recess until Thursday to allow the defense to prepare its case.

Manson's renewed plea to act as his own attorney drew the support of two defendants' lawyers. Paul Fitzgerald and Ronald Hughes said Manson as his own attorney would be invaluable in drawing testimony from defense witnesses among his hippie-type followers.

"If it was just myself it would be a simple thing," said Manson, waving a hand toward the three women. "These children here are your children as much as mine, and I love my children very much."

In refusing Manson's request, Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older said, "You are hopelessly incompetent to defend yourself in a case of this complexity. I have made that conclusion before, and I have made it today."

Before the ruling, the judge allowed Manson to speak uninterrupted for more than five minutes. It was the defendant's most coherent plea for self-representation of several he had made since the trial began 23 weeks ago.

"The very foundation we all stand on is the right of individual freedom," he said. "I'm not asking for anything my forefathers didn't ask for or die for."

... I'm not a leader and I don't wish to be made into a leader or a martyr or a hero. I would like to make myself back into myself ... I can bring the truth forward that I have not broken the law."

Manson, 36, is charged with murder-conspiracy along with followers Susan Atkins and Patricia Krenwinkel, both 22, and Leslie Van Houten 28. They are accused in the August 1969 slayings of the actress and six others.

The state rested its case after winning admission of some 250 items of evidence including 73 photographs of the victims, bloody in death.

Dandridge hot, Alcindor too, in Bucks' win

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Bobby Dandridge scored 30 points Monday night as the Milwaukee Bucks, winning their 10th consecutive National Basketball Association game, defeated the San Francisco Warriors, 119-110.

But Dandridge preferred to talk about Oscar Robertson.

"I'm getting better shots simply because Oscar is such a great passer," the sophomore from Norfolk State said. "He knows when to give the ball to you and when not to."

"He's constantly getting on you to keep moving and to play defense," Dandridge added.

Greg Smith, the other half of the Bucks' "small" forwards agreed.

"HE MAKES US talk on defense," Smith said of Oscar — the Big O. You've got to talk. You don't have eyes in the back of your head. So somebody else has got to tell you what's going on behind you."

Robertson, a 10-year NBA veteran playing his first season for Milwaukee, shrugged off his contribution to the team.

"The more you talk the easier it's going to be for you to switch, things like that," he said.

While Dandridge was pumping in his 30 points, teammate Lew Alcindor scored 31, pacing both teams. The Bucks used two spurts—a maneuver that's rapidly turning into their trademark — to clinch the victory.

WITH SAN Francisco on top, 56-53, just seconds into the third period, Milwaukee outscored the Warriors 18-3 to take a 71-59 advantage.

Nate Thurmond and Jerry Lucas, who finished with 25 and 23 points, respectively, fired a Warrior rally that cut the Bucks' lead to four points, 95-91, before Milwaukee's ball-hawking defense and fast-breaking offense put the game out of reach.

With seven minutes remaining in the contest, Milwaukee staged a 17-4 spurt that ended all San Francisco's hopes for a victory.

"I don't know if it's the year's experience or not," Dandridge said, "but I'm playing more relaxed than I did earlier this season."

Oscar's also not worried.

"We're going to get beat," he said. "It's coming. But if you get beat, you get beat. Then you go out and win 10 more in a row."

And the Cavaliers, who tied an NBA record by dropping their first 15 games this season before coming up with their only victory, extended their second losing string to three as they fell 98-86 to Baltimore.

In Monday night's only other NBA game—a doubleheader at Portland—the Buffalo Braves silenced Seattle 112-103 and, in the nightcap, San Diego whipped Portland 136-118.

The lone American Basketball Association game, Memphis against Texas at Fort Worth, was postponed to avoid a conflict with the nearby Dallas Cowboys-St. Louis Cardinals National Football League game.

Cleveland appeared on its way to triumph No. 2, leading 52-43 at the half and 69-41 after three quarters. Then Baltimore outshot the Cavaliers 37-17 in the final frame with the Bullets' Gus Johnson leading the way, hitting 18 of his game-high 33 points. Walt Wesley was top man for the losers with 28.

Buffalo hit a sizzling 64 per cent of their first-half field goal attempts to race to a 70-41 intermission advantage. Don May's 25 points led the balanced Braves attack. Dick Snyder hit 20 to pace the SuperSonics.

Elvin Hayes sparked San Diego's victory over Portland with 29 points and 23 rebounds. Jim Barnett topped the Trail Blazers with 24 points.

Cardinals rap Dallas 38-0

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys fans who booed Don Meredith from quarterback to television commentator—cried out for help from the "Dandy Man" Monday night, but he didn't want any part of the salty St. Louis defense, either.

The Cardinals crushed Dallas 38-0 in a nationally televised game to stay ahead of the New York Giants in the Eastern Division of the National Football Conference.

In doing so, St. Louis rolled up its third consecutive shutout—something which hasn't been done in the National Football League in 35 years.

"We want Meredith . . . we want Meredith . . ." the crowd chanted in the third period as the score mounted.

Meredith, warm and snug in the ABC-TV booth where he's a color commentator, said, "There's no way I'm going down there folks, I'll tell you that."

Meredith, who retired in 1968, showed good judgment.

The fierce Cardinal defense smothered Dallas' once fiery offense at every turn. Meanwhile, Johnny Roland dashed 74-yards on a punt return for one score and ran 10 and 3 yards for two others.

The other Cardinal tallies came on a 49-yard double reverse by John Gilliam, a 29-yard run by Roy Shivers, and a 31-yard field goal by Jim Bakken.

St. Louis now has outscored its last three opponents 113-0. It beat Houston 44-0, Boston 31-0, and now Dallas.

The Cardinals are 7-2 and the Giants are 6-3. Dallas is 5-4 and sinking fast.

Cardinal Coach Charley Winner, who had never beaten Dallas on the road, said he wasn't trying to run up the score even though the Cardinals exploded for 21-points in the final period.

"We were trying for the shut-out," Winner said.

Shivers broke loose on his scoring run near the end of the game and Winner mused: "When Roy came off I told him 'Roy, all I wanted was a first down.'"

The Giants shut out three consecutive foes in 1935. Detroit has the record of seven straight blankings in 1934.

Dallas quarterback Craig Morton, who had three interceptions, said about his play "It's just a big headache."

Substitute quarterback Roger Staubach also served up an interception to the eager Cardinal secondary.

But Meredith knew when he was safe.

"Nice guys don't always win . . . I don't care what anybody says," he laughed.

Longhorns try harder, No. 1

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's nice to be No. 1 again—but Texas coach Darrell Royal is more concerned that, if his Longhorns don't remain there, they may find themselves watching football's bowl games on television.

The Longhorns, after spending a week as No. 2 behind Notre Dame, tried harder last Saturday and, by shelling Texas Christian 58-0, vaulted back to the top of The Associated Press college football poll Monday. The Irish, whose 9-0 record equals Texas', had to scramble to nip Georgia Tech 10-7.

Cotton Bowl official Wilbur Evans said the Longhorns' return to the top "enhances our chances of giving the fans the No. 1 bowl attraction for the second straight year"—but Texas still has to get by Arkansas to earn that bowl berth.

Royal expressed concern Monday that the late date of the Arkansas game—Texas hosts the B-I Razorbacks Dec. 5 in what will likely decide the Southwest Conference title and the Cotton Bowl entry—could result in the loser getting shut out of post-season play as all the major bowl pairings would be completed by then.

But he quickly added he expected to be back in the Cotton Bowl on New Year's Day, adding: "We'd be delighted to play Notre Dame." A year ago the Longhorns squeaked by Arkansas 15-14 in the season finale, then rallied in the final minutes to beat the Irish 21-17.

Texas garnered 26 first-place votes to seven for Notre Dame and out-pollled the Irish 816 to 705 in total points in the poll, which also saw major shuffling among the remaining Top Ten teams according to the vote by a nationwide panel of sports-writers and sportscasters.

Nebraska, 9-0-1, which pounded Kansas State 51-13, moved up one notch to third place, 11 points shy of Notre Dame, and Michigan, 9-0, a 55-0 victor over Iowa, inched from fifth to fourth place with 682 points.

Ohio State, 8-0, which needed a late-game 30-yard field goal to edge Purdue 10-7, fell two places to fifth at 645.

The second five were Arkansas, up two slots; Louisiana State, also up two; Tennessee, leaping from 10th to eighth; Arizona State, from 11th to ninth, and Sugar Bowl-bound Air Force, up from 13th.

The second 10 are Stanford, Mississippi, Auburn, San Diego State, Toledo, Dartmouth, Georgia Tech, Northwestern, Texas Tech and Penn State.

Collier first witness in NFL investigation

By CHARLES R. HORNICK
CLEVELAND (AP) — General Manager Harold Sauerbrel of the Cleveland Browns was expected to be the first witness today before a newly impaneled federal grand jury investigating antitrust cases.

The investigation opened Monday with Blanton Collier, head coach of the Browns, as the first witness. He was followed by Tom Fears, who was fired Nov. 3 as coach of the New Orleans Saints after the club had a 1-5-1 record in its first seven games, the worst in its four-year history.

Besides Sauerbrel, other Browns representatives expected to appear before the grand jury today were offensive coach Nick Skorich and defensive backfield coach Howard Brinker.

St. Louis Cardinals representatives also were expected. St. Louis was the only other National Football League team confirming that it had been subpoenaed to appear this week. Several other clubs said, however, that they had received subpoenas for later appearances.

"I answered all their questions," Collier told newsmen after spending an hour and 40 minutes before the 23-member jury. "I have nothing further to say at this time."

Fears, a former Los Angeles end and a member of the Professional Football Hall of Fame, told newsmen he was not surprised at questions asked of him during the hour and a half he was before the jury.

He said he could not comment when asked if the questions related to speculation that the NFL might be investigating the NFL merger with the American Football League and alleged blackmailing of some players.

Attorneys for the Cleveland office of the U.S. Justice Department's Antitrust Division have refused comment on the investigation or even to confirm that there is one.

Collier, who was accompanied to the Federal Building by attorney Thomas Meaney, told newsmen before entering the jury room:

"I'm as much in the dark as you fellows are, so we'll start out together." He was smiling and in apparent good spirits when he emerged from the room.

Big Ten's bowl rule may be out

CHICAGO (AP) — The Big Ten's no-repeat policy in the Rose Bowl might be on its way out.

Commissioner Bill Reed said Monday he is in favor of sending the conference champion to the Rose Bowl every year.

Under the no-repeat rule, Michigan could defeat Ohio State Saturday to win the conference title but is ineligible for the Rose Bowl since it represented the conference last year.

"We have a great deal at stake in the Rose Bowl and feel we should make it as great an attraction as possible," said Reed. "My views are not shared by the conference. I put this question on the agenda at last year's meeting and no one responded to it."

The no-repeat rule has been in force for 24 years and the Big Ten has sent only four second place teams — all of whom returned victoriously.

"The original purpose of the conference in voting the no-repeat rule was that no school set up a Rose Bowl hierarchy," said Reed.

"This was a sound policy, but the nature of the competition in the last 15 years shows there is not much danger in a hierarchy taking over," he added.

Reed said he would not recommend elimination of the rule at the Big Ten meetings next month but added "During the next year I think the conference schools should re-examine this point and make their views known, even if I stand in danger of being repudiated."

"There is no question that when we first entered into the Rose Bowl contract, the no-repeat rule was essential," said Reed. "The contract could not have been approved without it; it represented a form of restraint."

"This sentiment may still exist and then I'm out of order suggesting it be changed. If it is of essence to the contract then I don't want the contract changed."

Reed felt one solution would be to let the individual schools accept or decline a second consecutive invitation, adding that the Rose Bowl trip was a tremendous undertaking with disruptions involving some six weeks of time cutting into the basketball program and other athletic events.

Ferguson named All-Conference

For the second straight year, only one player from Winona High was selected to the first team Big Nine All-Conference football squad. This year he is Joe Ferguson, 180-pound senior, who was named to an end position on the offensive team.

Albert Lea, the Big Nine champions with a 7-0 record, and Austin each placed six players on the offensive and defensive teams combined. Owatonna grabbed up three of the top 22 spots, and Red Wing and Mankato claimed two apiece. Like Winona, both Rochester schools, Mayo and John Marshall, managed to gain but one berth on the team.

Ferguson, a sturdy sure-handed receiver, hauled in 16 passes on the season for a total of 240 yards. The 6-foot All-Conference choice finished the season with 28 points to his credit, 20 of which were scored in Big Nine action.

Ferguson scored the only touchdown in Winona's rugged 6-0 triumph over John Marshall on a one-yard toss from Mike Semling. He was also the target for a Semling touchdown aerial in games against Red Wing and Mankato, in addition to grabbing a conversion pass from the same source against Mayo.

Last year the Winhawks' lone pick on the All-Conference team was Steve Pix, who was selected as a linebacker.

The only repeater on the Big Nine's first team for 1970 is Austin's Kevin Keller, who was again picked at a defensive halfback spot. Other selections from the second-place Packers include offensive tackle Gregg Marmesh, defensive end Ron Barnett, defensive guards Ron Clark and Dave Williams, and defensive back Dan Ball.

Albert Lea running back Mike Pappas and center Kirk Noland were both unanimous choices for the team collecting 11 votes each. Mark Hultgren

Meets Frazier Wednesday night

Foster adds weight, confidence

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
DETROIT (AP)—Bob Foster will weigh the highest of his career when he fights Joe Frazier for the heavyweight championship. But the real gain won't show on the scales.

"It's given him a million pounds of confidence," veteran trainer Bill Gore said of Foster's added weight. He actually thinks he's going to tip Frazier over.

"I know I'm ready for this," the light heavyweight champion said Monday after completing his training for the scheduled 15-round fight Wednesday night in Cobo Arena.

The added weight—Foster is expected to weigh in at about 184—and his accompanying confidence are the results of a different and intense training program, according to Foster whose previous high fighting weight was 177, two pounds over the light-heavy limit.

For the first time in preparing for a fight Foster has done calisthenics. He also, according to Gore, is eating properly.

"Before he showed up at the gym, punched the bag, spit on the floor a couple of times and went home," Gore said of Foster's previous training habits.

Foster finished his gym work by sparring three rounds with Jim Davis.

Foster showed up at the 21st Century Gym, a sixth floor room in Downtown Detroit, about 15 minutes after Frazier, who is expected to weigh 205, concluded his training by sparring three rounds with Moleman Williams.

The heavyweight champion, usually reluctant to talk when he is training for a fight, was in good spirits.

But as usual the champ would not discuss Muhammad Ali whom he always refers to as Cassius Clay.

As for a fight with Ali, Yank

Durham, Frazier's manager, quipped:

"I think I'll fight George Foreman. What'd Clay ever do to deserve a fight for the championship?"

Durham also made his usual prediction of victory within "one to 15 rounds."

21st Century Promotions, Inc., is hoping for a turnout of about 10,000, which would mean a live gate of about $300,000, to watch Foster try to become the first light heavyweight king to win the heavyweight title.

The fight also will be the feature half of a closed-circuit television doubleheader. The first half will be a scheduled 10-rounder between heavyweights George Foreman and Boone Kirkman in New York's Madison Square Garden.

TNT Communications, Inc., will handle the closed circuit television to 110 locations, with a seating capacity of 500,000, in 91 cities in the United States and Canada. The fight also will be beamed via satellite to 26 countries in Europe, Africa, Asia, South America and the South Pacific.

The two fighters will officially weigh in at 9 a.m. (CST), Wednesday under the supervision of the Michigan Athletic Board of Control, chaired by Chuck Davey, a former welterweight contender.

The fight is scheduled to begin at 9:30 p.m. and will be judged on the 10-point must system, with 10 points to the winner of a round, nine points or less to the loser and 10 points each for an even round.

Manning released from hospital

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi quarterback Archie Manning was back on the campus today awaiting the go ahead from doctors to resume light practice.

Manning was released Monday from Baptist Hospital at Memphis, Tenn., eight days after he entered for treatment of a broken left arm received during the Houston-Mississippi game here Nov. 7.

He was expected to take it easy for a few days, but doctors have indicated he may be able to try limited passing and running later in the week.

Manning may be able to return to his quarterbacking chores in the Rebels' Dec. 5 game against Louisiana State if his arm mends as expected.

Voice of the Outdoors

Deer kill normal
 Although the "hunter pressure" was far below normal, Southeastern Minnesota deer hunters probably were as successful as any in the state. That, at least, is the opinion of conservation officials and others connected with the hunt.

Among reasons given for the decrease in the number of hunters were the weather (lack of snow) and the duck season. Even with the greater number of hunters from western Minnesota Sunday, the lack of red-clad hunters in the area was noticeable. There were more hunters in the White-water area Sunday than on opening day, however. This also may have been true in Fillmore and Houston counties.

"The hunters went duck hunting," was the explanation for the sharp dropoff given by Bill Gannaway, local warden. It was the last weekend of the Minnesota duck season and there was a good movement of ducks into the river zone. So, according to Gannaway, hunters saved the price of a deer license in favor of trying for their limits of ducks. There was also a movement of ardent pheasant hunters into Iowa. But they, for the most part, were disappointed. The birds were not there and the corn harvest was late—75 percent of the crop still in the fields. In the northern tier of Iowa counties, for instance, there was an abundance of hunters but few birds.

happened in northern Minnesota.

Incidentally, two youths were picked up for shining deer here Sunday night. Wardens will continue to patrol evenings beyond the season. The patrol includes the use of the state plane.

Carelessness probably will be blamed for the two hunting accidents in Houston County. The cover in the woods remains heavy. It was tough going and the need for caution was great.

Interest now shifts to the Wisconsin opening next weekend. Wisconsin fears an invasion of Minnesota hunters in river counties because of a heavy deer population. It is feared that Twin Cities hunters who normally have gone north will cross the river and buy non-resident licenses, since it probably would be cheaper than going north for a week.

Coulee Conference to be tough one

On a team-for-team basis, the Coulee Conference is shaping up to be one of the area's strongest conferences in the last several seasons. Only Bangor has less than five returning lettermen to build around for the 1970-71 season.

Last year's Coulee co-titlists, Holmen and Gale-Etrick, are again considered to be the favorites with Onalaska providing the stiffest challenge. The Vikings and Redmen both compiled 11-3 marks in loop action last season.

Arcadia and Melrose-Mindoro should both be much improved with each team having a roster bolstered by the return of seven lettermen. Trempealeau and West Salem are also expected to display substantial progress as the season develops.

HOLMEN
 The Vikings boast the best record for the 1969-70 season of any of the teams in the Coulee Conference, 16-5. Coach Gary Johnson's squad started right in towards what should prove to be an equally successful season by thumping Cochrane-Palchid 68-48 in its opener last Friday.

Holmen will have two of the area's finest front-line players to contend with in Eric Haug and Brad Price. Haug, a 6-3, 170 pounder, dumped in 32 points in the opener, and Price, at 6-4 and 185 pounds, was a terror on the boards.

Other letter winners returning for duty are guards Verdayne Stone, Robert Beranek, and Joe Bliskemper. Johnson has indicated that he plans on doing a lot of running on offense and pressing on defense.

Supplying the depth for Holmen will be sophomores Dave Bliskemper, Bob Price, and Bill Knutson, and senior Roger Casberg.

GALE-ETTRICK
 The Redmen's major obstacle will be to survive a noticeable height deficit. Dick Longwell, at 6-3, is the only player on the squad over six feet tall.

Gale-Etrick ran up a 14-7 record overall last season, and has lettermen Mike Baer, Paul Sacka, Tim Twesme, and Longwell back from that squad. Wayne Meunier, who lettered at Trempealeau last year, should also provide some valuable experience to Coach Russell Lund's team.

The Redmen will need to stay fresh in order to battle taller players for rebounds, and much of the team's success will hinge on the performance of the reserves. Guards Orle Elstad and Bruce Stuhl, forwards Breg Biesen and Mike Stelfiue, and center John Byom are certain to spend a lot of time on the court.

Lund's assistant coaches will be Don Fitzpatrick, and Larry Gausch.

ONALASKA
 The Hilltoppers will field the team with the best average height in the Coulee Conference. Coach Russ Peterson, at 6-4 and 200 pounds, will be tough to stop.

Onalaska wound up in third place in the circuit last season with a 9-5 record and finished 10-9 overall. Head Coach Chuck Deeth can rely on the services of five other lettermen besides Peterson to help make the Hilltoppers a definite contender this year.

Chuck Phillips, 6-2, and Dave Mallin, 6-2, will be the forwards, and Tom Baures, 6-2, and Dave Zielke will be the guards. Backing up the front-line starters will be Dan VanRiper.

Baures and Zielke will have to get the job done as Onalaska has a host of promising backcourt prospects in Dave Johnson, Randy Allen, Jeff Hayes, Jim Cantwell and Bob Newberry.

ARCADIA
 Coach Richard Fredrickson has no doubts about the Raiders' chances of improving on their 3-16 mark compiled during the 1969-70 campaign. Arcadia has seven letter winners returning and an abundance of depth besides.

Among the lettermen back for action are John Misch, Bill O'Brien, Joe Gamoke, Ed Haines, Gary Kulig, Martin Seller and Bob Smith. Gamoke is 6-3 and 220 pounds, and Seller is 6-3 and 185.

Also battling for starting positions will be forwards Chuck Axness, Lonnie Sonsalla, Wayne Bisek, and Scott Koetting, and guards Terry Schollmeier and Ron Konsela. Paul LaLiberte, a 6-3 junior, will be available to spare Gamoke and Seller when necessary.

MELROSE-MINDORO
 Melrose-Mindoro will be looking for an improved record this season after finishing the 1969-70 year with a 3-11 conference mark.

The brunt of the Mustangs' attack will fall on a crop of seven lettermen, 5-7 senior Mike Profit, 5-11 senior Chuck Timm, 6-1 senior Steve Kirchner, 6-2 senior Dan Pfaff, 5-7 senior Bruce Shiffer, 5-10 junior Bob Peterson, and 6-10 junior Mike Grzedzielski.

Head Coach Bob Strainis, however, must still work on some improvement in a few areas, a more consistent defense and shooting under pressure. With a year's experience under their belts, the returnees should use their man-to-man tactics fruitfully with Grzedzielski again expected to lead the team in rebounding as he did last season.

Coach Strainis is also expecting help from several juniors,

5-11 Gary Cogdill, 6-1 Tim Kriebick, 6-0 Mike Paley, 6-11 Gary Isenee, 8-2 Chris Lutz and 5-7 La Monte Olson.

TREMPEALEAU
 The Bears, under Head Coach Bill Thelen, may be in for a tough season, although five lettermen are returning. Two of those, however, are out for indefinite periods with injuries suffered in the football season.

Senior forward Dan Thill, 6-1, is out with a knee injury, and senior guard Larry Frommelt, 5-8, will miss considerable playing time with a broken collar bone.

Other returning letterwinners include junior center Dennis Blank, 6-4; junior forward Glenn Brommerick, 5-11, and junior forward Mike Leavitt, 6-11.

Some top prospects include juniors Dan Bruggeman, 5-10, and Russ Kobe, 6-5 forward.

BANGOR
 Bangor finished the last season with an impressive 12-2 record, but all but one of the lettermen have been lost to graduation and Head Coach Roger Mashack is forced to work with inexperienced players this year.

The lone returnee is senior Ken Herman, a 6-0 forward.

The Cardinals will be relying heavily on several top prospects to fill out the rest of the starting crew — and height appears to be one of the major problems in this rebuilding year.

Junior Mark Downer leads the prospects, he's a 6-1 guard. Others include juniors Paul Am-born, 5-10 guard, Gene Horstmen, 6-0 forward, and Len Young, 6-0 forward; and seniors George Althoff, 6-0 forward, Gordy Schroeder, 5-9 guard, Paul Weiske, 5-9 guard and Steve Wiensch, 5-10 forward.

WEST SALEM
 Last season, West Salem Head Coach John Riberich made his coaching debut—and came out with a 4-10 record in what he termed a rebuilding year.

This season he has nine of the 12 members back, five of them lettermen. With the resulting depth, Riberich hopes to use a pressure defense, including full and half court zone and man-to-man press.

The Panthers, however, still lack the one big man to control the boards.

Returning lettermen are all seniors except junior Eric Johnson, a 6-0 forward. Seniors are Dave Hanson, a 6-3 forward; Jerry King, a 6-2 center, Gary Groth, a 5-11 forward, and Jim Zellmer, a 5-8 guard.

Locally there were a large number of six-, eight- and 10-point bucks taken. The list of successful hunters calling the office and our home would fill this column, but nevertheless we like to hear from hunters because it gives us a more accurate picture of the results.

Dale Peterson, district warden who lives at Owatonna, reports that hunting pressure was low throughout the district. He blames the lack of interest on the number of deer. His opinion is based mainly on reports from Northern Minnesota that the deer population was down.

At any rate, the hunters were missing in the two-day shotgun zone and we have not received reports on what

Gophers' White may return for Wisconsin tilt

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Minnesota Gophers close out the Big Ten season Saturday against the Badgers at Madison, Wis., and a team spokesman said Monday that injured defensive back Mike White may return to action.

A pulled hamstring muscle kept White out of last Saturday's 23-13 Minnesota victory over Michigan State.

North Stars meet Blues tonight at 8

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Minnesota North Stars face the defending West Division Champion Blues at 8 p.m. tonight in a tough National Hockey League game at St. Louis.

The Blues are unbeaten in their last seven games and have lost just once in their last 12 outings. The Stars, in their last four games, have three ties and only one victory.

Under coach Al Arbour, the Blues have had one of the NHL's tightest, most conservative playing styles. Although they have scored only 34 goals in 15 games, they have allowed an average of just 1.6 goals per game to their opponents.

Minnesota coach Jackie Gordon will start veteran Gump Worsley in the nets tonight. The Stars return to the Twin Cities to host the defending Stanley Cup Champion Boston Bruins Wednesday night.

Plates sold at Fillmore court office

PRESTON, Minn. — Automobile license plates are now being sold in the Fillmore County courthouse here by George Milne, clerk of court. They formerly were dispensed by Francis McNiff, deputy registrar.

A total of 160 automobile licenses for 1971 were sold on Monday. Making the first purchase was Wyman Yaste, custodian of the courthouse.

Assisting Milne was McNiff, who handled the sale of the plates before the car licensing bureau was moved into the courthouse on July 1.

Milne also has charge of driver licenses.

Cottage owner reports theft of log chain

Winona County Sheriff George L. Fort said this morning that Jack Horner, Onalaska, Wis., reported at 2 p.m. Monday that the chain had been removed from his cottage there sometime in the past ten days. He valued the missing chain at $25.

In other action around the county, Sheriff Fort said his office has received a report of an incident in Goodview in which the interior of a car was slashed.

James Thompson, 4333 9th St., Goodview, called the sheriff's office at 8:45 a.m. Monday to report that the interior of his 1961 model sedan had been slashed while it sat in front of his home Friday night. He gave no estimate of damage.

Four escape injury when car hits bridge

A driver and his three passengers escaped injury Monday evening when their car went out of control and struck a bridge abutment on a township road north of St. Charles.

Winona County Sheriff George L. Fort said that a 1957 model hardtop driven by George Clark, Dover Rt. 1, Minn., went out of control while northbound on a township road one mile north of St. Charles and crashed into a bridge abutment at 7:45 p.m.

The car was declared a total loss, Fort said, adding that charges are pending as a result of the crash.

Namath 'wants to play next season'

NEW YORK (AP) — Quarterback Joe Namath of the New York Jets, who wasn't certain about his pro football future, apparently has decided to play again next season.

Namath broke his right wrist five weeks ago and said at the time he wasn't sure about his 1971 plans for National Football League competition. After having been sidelined for the Jets' last four games, his attitude has changed.

"The way I feel right now," Namath said Monday, "I want to play next season. I've discovered that I really miss not being able to play. That, and the fact that I can play better than anybody at my position and I want to prove that next year."

Prize money added to Canadian Open

MONTREAL (AP) — The annual Canadian Open Golf Championship will have a new sponsor and additional prize money for 1971, it was announced Monday night.

The 1971 Open is scheduled for the nearby 6,000-yard par 72 Richelieu Valley Golf and Country Club course July 1-4. Total prize money has been increased to $150,000, up $25,000 over last year, and first-prize money is increased to $30,000 from the previous $25,000.

Goodview council issues permits

Three building permits were issued and the quotation of Tri-County Co-op Oil Association for number two fuel oil for the Goodview Fire Station was accepted at the Monday evening meeting of the Goodview Village Council.

Two of the three building permits were issued to Earl R. Boller Jr., for two houses, each with an attached garage, to be built at 860 and 865 49th Avenue. Estimated cost of each is $20,000.

The village council also approved a building permit for Lake Village, Inc., to install facilities for 167 mobile home units to be located in the south one-half of the northwest one-fourth of section 18, formerly occupied by Winona Sand & Gravel Co. Estimate cost of development is $125,000.

The Tri-County Co-op Oil Association quoted the lower price for number two fuel oil for the 1970-71 heating season for the Goodview Fire Station with the price of 13.9 cents per gallon. The accepted quotation compares with Winona Oil Co.'s quotation of 14.5 cents. The oil will be delivered as needed on a "keep filled" basis.

An on-the-spot check will be made by village councilmen when they meet at 10 a.m. Saturday on Ninth Street to consider improvements to be made on that street between 44th and 54th avenues. It is expected the opening of the new school next September will create a new traffic pattern in the area.

Candidate files $350 extra for family helpers

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — The unsuccessful candidate for New Mexico governor, Republican Pete Domenici, filed his campaign personal expense statement with the secretary of state Monday. It included $350 for "extra domestic help" for his eight children.

Domenici's wife Nancy campaigned extensively with her husband.

37,000 pounds of illegal drugs seized by Customs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Customs Bureau officials confiscated more than 37,000 pounds of illegal drugs in 3,016 seizures from July through September this year, up 2 1/2 times over the same period a year ago.

Deputy Customs Commissioner Edwin F. Rains said Monday the increase is due largely to an addition of 300 new agents. He said he could not interpret the statistics as a clear sign of increased drug activity by smugglers.

Transport license amendment granted

EAU CLAIRE, Wis. — An application for amendment to contract motor carrier license has been granted to Einar W. Larson and Eldon J. Larson, Osseo Rt. 4, Trempealeau County, by the Public Service Commission of Wisconsin.

The Larsons now may transport dirt, sand, gravel, stone, cinders, ashes, hatch cement or asphalt mix, in dump trucks, in intrastate commerce within a 15-mile radius of Osseo and from points in Buffalo County to points in said area (except for construction and maintenance of and stockpiling of materials for direct use in construction and maintenance of public highways).

This does not include transportation of materials for use in industrial or manufacturing purposes other than ready mix or concrete products plants.

MADISON, Wis. — The Public Service Commission of Wisconsin will hold a public hearing at 10 a.m. Monday in Room 433 of the Hill Farms State Office Building here to review the application of the village of Ettrick, Trempealeau County, as a combined water and sewer public utility.

The village is seeking authority to increase water and sewer rates.

Market makes good gain in quiet trading

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, rolling on the momentum generated in Monday's late recovery move, rang up a good gain in quiet trading early this afternoon.

Some Wall Street sources said investors' interest was heightened by speculation that further cuts in major interest rates might be impending.

However, Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, hinted in Paris that if the basic U.S. economy begins to expand rapidly, it might force interest rates up as the demand for more funds grew.

At noon the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials had gained 4.04 to 764.17.

The margin of advances over declines expanded to about 230 among issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

The upward move spread through the motors, rubber issues, farm implements, aircrafts, electronics, utilities, non-ferrous metals, chemicals, oils, tobaccos and drugs.

Among big blocks traded on the New York exchange were 51,000 shares of Ford Motor, off 1/2 at 49 1/2, and 30,000 shares of Honeywell, up 1/2 to 73 1/2.

Federal National Mortgage, up 1/2 at 51 1/2, paced the Big Board's most-active list.
